The mischievous look on Andy Thompson's face shows that school isn't always serious business.

Mike Bogue and Steve Fields are pictured in the doorway separating the high school hall from the junior high section. A large number of eighth grade boys could usually be found there each morning checking the action in both areas of the school.

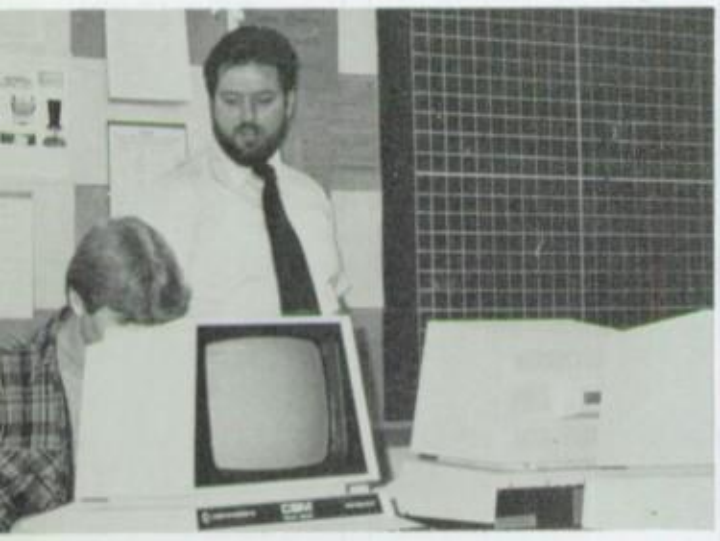
Finally We Are One

Over twenty years ago the Monroe Central School Corporation was formed, but not until this year did we finally become one. The current seventh graders were the first Monroe Central class to attend the new elementary. Therefore, when they entered the junior/senior high school in the fall, they came not as Parker or Farmland students, but as Golden Bears. Although they did have to adjust to new teachers and new surroundings, they did not have the additional problems of getting to know their classmates. They were already well-acquainted with each other. In future years the presence of only one elementary feeding into the high school will undoubtedly bring an increase in solidarity and school spirit to Monroe Central.

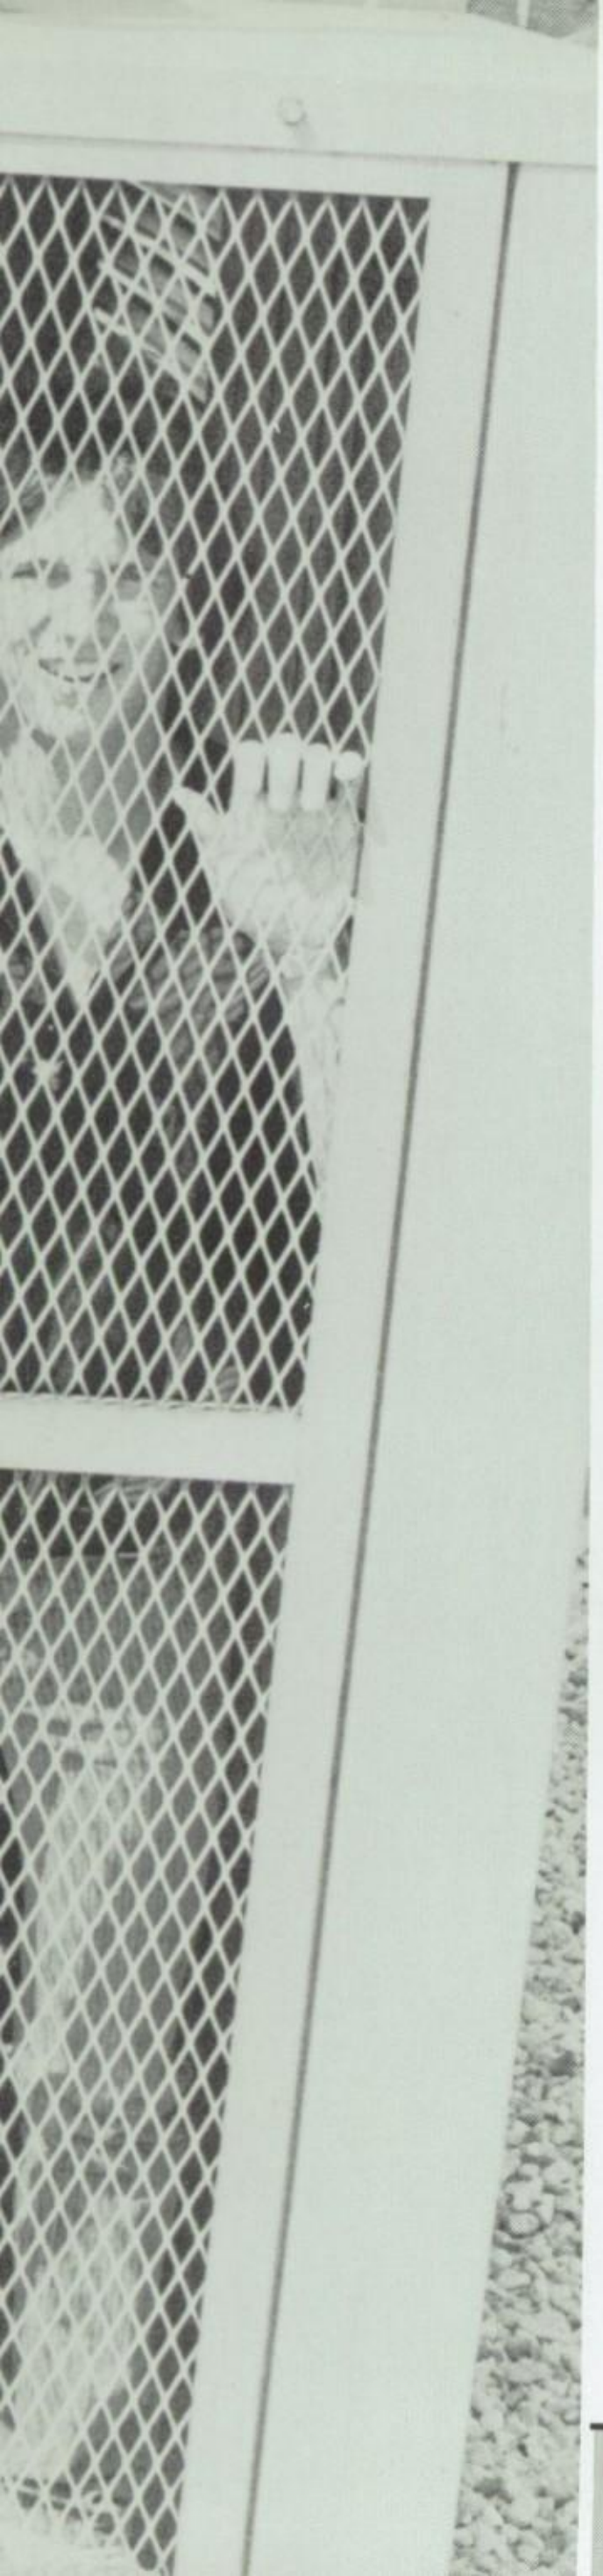
The transition for these seventh graders from elementary to junior high was certainly easier than previous years due to their grade school experiences.

Just as the Bear is emerging from the ruble of the old Park School, so is a new spirit and togetherness developing at Monroe Central.

Putting her feet up helped Shelley Starr to relax during the rigors of a seven period day.



One new requirement was that all juniors had to take Introduction to Computers, taught by Mr. Les McEldowney.



New State Laws Unpopular

Monroe Central students were united in yet another way during the school year. There was widespread dislike of the new state educational regulations and requirements. Many students disapproved of the seven period day, although a few did like having an opportunity to take more electives. The shortened time between classes was another criticism often voiced by students. Yet another area where students often expressed opposition to the changes was in the pep session and convocation policy forced on the school. Students resented not being allowed to support their teams or having any breaks in the daily routine of school. In the spring some of the loudest criticism could be heard. The seniors bitterly resented the fact that they were deprived of much of the traditional senior activities.

Students often complained that school had become like a prison. Cy Duvall and Tracy Buis illustrate the "behind bars" feeling.

Long lines in the bathroom was just one of the frustrations faced by students.

This is a look at just one of the days students were in school hoping to be sent home on account of snow.

Bobby Knight shows a calmer appearance after losing a tournament game against UCLA than he was noted for in most of the 1984-85 season.

OUTSIDE THE CLASSROOM

Like all the classes before them, in the spring the seniors found it hard to concentrate on school work.

This is just one example of the great graffitti war of 1984-85.

Tradition Vs. Legislation

Homecoming began the traditional way. Once again students were asked to "dress up" to show their school spirit. The week started off with Brown and Gold Day which was followed by Reversal, Favorite Super Hero, and Fifties Days.

However due to new state legislation, Crazy Day, the high point of Homecoming Week, lost much of its impact. Since only a very limited amount of class time could be used, the festivities did not officially begin until 1:15. Therefore, the annual competition between classes had to be eliminated. Still the students did enjoy spending the afternoon dancing to the music of The Electric Dance and Video Company.

Homecoming picked up once again Friday evening as the Bears conquered Blue River Valley 56-55. The highlight of the evening was the crowning of Lissa O'Bryant and Ed Lockard as Homecoming Queen and King. To wrap up Homecoming Week, Student Council sponsored a final dance to celebrate the victory.

Arm-in-arm, Linda Smithson and Jeff Miller cross the Homecoming threshold as the junior class representatives in the court.

Shining with pride, Lissa O'Bryant and Ed Lockard reign as Homecoming Queen and King.

Acting cool and crazy is sometimes difficult, but not for Dave Stanley and Wayne Sheller.

Change The Play For Tradition?

Change the play two weeks into rehearsal?!?!! Sounds improbable, but that's just what the Masque and Gavel Club did this year.

It is a long standing tradition that the play showcases the talents of the seniors in the group. So when the script to Utopia Inc. came in late, the club dumped the play called The Marriage Bit.

The Saturday night performance went off with some minor catastrophies. Sets falling apart at the seams and cast members hamming up a few scenes made the Saturday night audience laugh right out of their seats.

Masque and Gavel also followed two more traditions. After the Friday night performance the cast went to Nobel Romans and following the Saturday night presentation, the club had a lasagna party in the cafetorium.

St. Elmer (Don Sumwalt) meets Mrs. Smith (Cathy Cross), as Mr. Smith (Dean Cook) looks on.

Mrs. Smith (Cathy Cross) enjoys showing off the "fancies" that she purchased on her shopping spree.

One may have to look hard to find them but the backstage crew (Wendy Gray, Shannon Hinshaw, Karicia Gardiner, Betty Chadwell, Kelly Christy, Carol Rinearson, Jenny Bennett) are important to the show's success.

Romancing The Night Away

Prom night! After months of planning and decision making that magic night was finally here. After all of the pictures at home had been taken, it was off to eat. Whether dining at Vince's, Foxfire's, or Butterfield's it was easy to tell this was going to be a "Once in a Lifetime" experience.

After dinner it was time for the prom. As couples walked into the cafeteria they probably thought they were in heaven. For the ceiling juniors had rented cargo parachutes which gave the effect of clouds. In the middle of the dance floor could be seen a "romantic rendezvous." The band, "Different Strokes," played on a cloud.

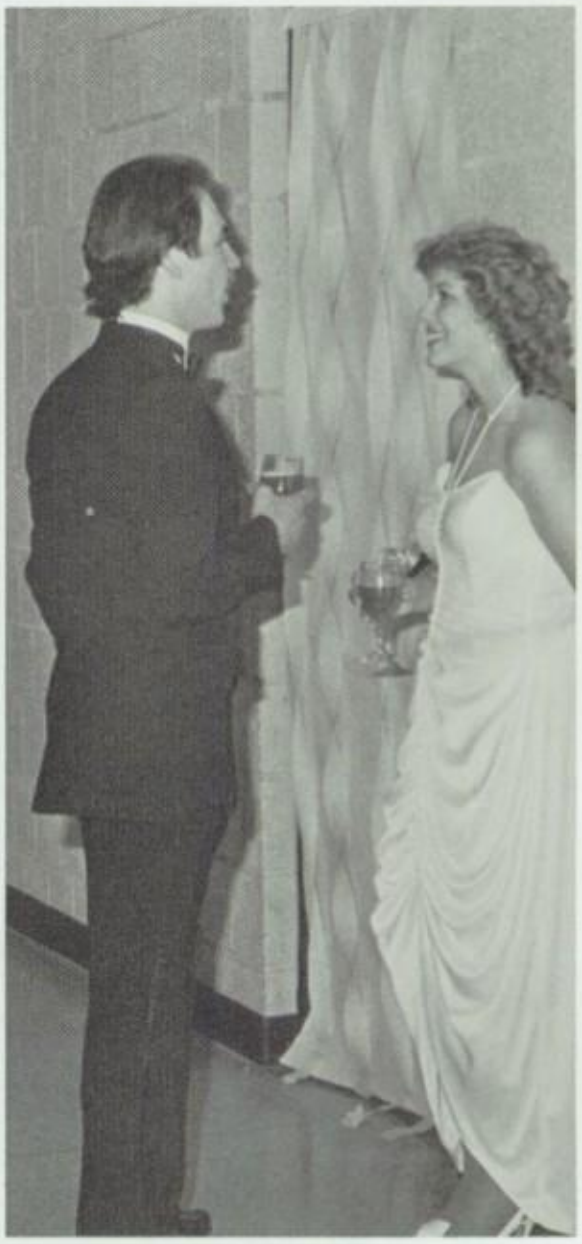
After the dance prom-goers went bowling at the Village Bowl. Then, couples went their own ways, maybe, going to eat breakfast or to the reservoir. Every couple would agree the night was truly "Once in a Lifetime."

Proud to be selected as Prom Princess and Prince, Carma Winans and Jeff Miller look pleased.

A smile is a small token of Robin Keever's appreciation for being selected as Prom Queen. Prom King Dale Profitt follows closely behind.

Enjoying the slow dances, as many did, Linda Smithson and Tracy Buis flash smiles at each other.

Taking a break from the evening's festivities, Jonna Reed and her date relax with a glass of punch.

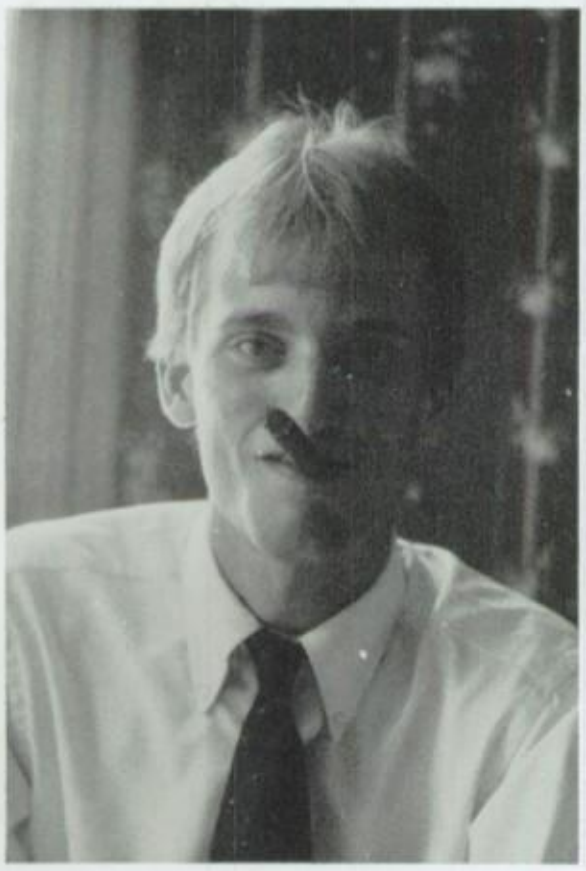


Favors create memories that can be saved forever. The sourvenirs include glasses, memory booklers, invitations, name cards, and the bids themselves.

Hurray! We Made It!!

Dampened spirits were not characteristic of the seniors even though they didn't have a true senior week. Rather than the traditional week to ten days, the seniors got out of school only two days prior to the underclassmen. Also, the class didn't go to King's Island together. However, this was their week and they made the best of it.

On Thursday, their last day of classes, the seniors had the traditional water fight with the juniors. Then, on Friday morning they came back for Awards Day. The class selected Mrs. Paula Washler and Mr. Preston Proctor as their teachers of the year. In the afternoon, the senior banquet was held at Yesteryears' Restaurant in Redkey where David Stanley was chosen to read the prophesy. Then it was back to school again for commencement practice. It was here that the seniors gave Principal Don Elder a memorable present. They hired a belly dancer who performed a very spirited dance. Finally, it was graduation. They had their diplomas and senior week was over for them forever.



Smoking the traditional cigar at the senior banquet brings a smile to the face of Michael Pepples.

The reading of the class prophesy by David Stanley will never be forgotten by his classmates.

CLUBS

Backstage preparations often take help as Shannon Hinshaw and Steve McCord demonstrate. The two seniors appeared in Masque & Gavel's Utopia Inc.

This year was indeed a year of changes. Not only were the number of credits required to graduate increased, but the school adopted a seven period day.

Academics weren't the only thing to be altered. The Pep Club, long a familiar sight at basketball games, was disbanded after only three girls signed up. The FCA took over selling concessions at the ballgames. Satin Sounds, once considered a club, was changed to a class. Also, Jazz Band, another former extracurricular activity, was offered as a formal class. Honor Society upgraded requirements and for the first time invited sophomores to join.

Taking part in clubs was especially hard due to the fact that there was no activity period. All meetings had to be before or after school. This has definitely been a year of change.

"Practice makes perfect!" Satin Sounds members Kelly Christy, Jenny Gillespie, and Wendi Willis discuss a new song.

Band Undergoes Time Of Trial And Success

When band director, Mr. Wayne Hinkel, resigned in the middle of the year because of health problems, the chances of the band department being able to compete in state competition looked grim. After a few weeks of employing a substitute, the school board decided to hire Mr. Ron McGranahan as the department's new leader. In a matter of a few, short rehearsals, and a performance by the concert band at Ball State University, Mr. McGranahan pulled the bands together for state contest. The jazz band, junior high band, and concert band all received superior first division ratings.

Besides taking the bands to state contest, Mr. McGranahan has put together a twenty member flag and rifle corp to perform with the marching band in the summer and at varsity basketball games in the winter.

It seems as though seventh grader, DeWayne Acree enjoys playing the trombone.

Satin Sounds And Choir Show Us Their Stuff

The Vocal Music Department had a super year. The departments two major groups, Satin Sounds and Choir, both competed in the Indiana State School Music Association Contest and both recieved superior ratings, the highest possible ranking. Along with the large vocal groups, several trios, quarters, and pianists advanced to the state finals and also received superior ratings.

In addition to competing in contests, the Satin Sounds sang at the Christmas concert and held another concert in the spring. The group also performed at local nursing homes and banquets. However, the biggest project of the Vocal Music Department was the presentation of Godspell in the spring.

Rehearsing for a musical is not an easy task as Beth Riddlebarger, Gina Willis, and Mary Butler found out.

Coulter Wins Star Farmer Award And District Office

The Future Farmers of America participated in many contests that teach students skills they will need as adults. In the fall the FFA was in the county soils judging contest. Brad Kelly placed second individually and the team placed first. In the district the team missed going to the state by two points. In county livestock judging competition the team placed first and Brad Kelly was second individually. In the poultry and egg contest the team placed second in the county and later advanced to the state contest.

The FFA also fielded teams in dairy, crop, and forestry judging. The FFA also had members participating in a contest which tested record-keeping skills and farm production or management ability. Three members were in the top twelve in the state and will be eligible to advance to national competition. The top finishers were Tony Schauer, sheep production; Darren Coulter, diversified crop production; and Brett Meranda, turf and landscape management. Another honor was accorded to the local chapter when Darren Coulter was elected district treasurer.

The FFA had fund-raising and community serivce projects. The club sponsored the annual barbecue, sold citrus fruit, and sold conservation trees and seeds at cost. The chapter also honored Mrs. Connie Akers as an honorary chapter farmer.

Future Homemakers Attend State Convention

Unlike other department Home Economics was little affected by legislative changes. The department did have a Ball State student teacher, Kathy Crowell, who worked under Mrs. Carol Gilmore. The Art Department also had a change in personnel. Miss Debbie Stanley, who had previously taught in the Rushville system, was hired to instruct all art classes and to coach junior high track.

Future Homemakers of America again sponsored a variety of activities for its members. In the fall club sponsor Mrs. Gilmore, along with club president Alison Whittenburg, Judy Calhoun, Vickie Brosher, and Lisa Reed attended the state convention in Indianapolis. FFA members also had a Mother/Daughter Banquet at Hagerstown and treated their fathers to a bowling outing at Muncie's Bowl-O-Mat.

Alterations in the state's requirements for science caused MC to hire a new teacher, Miss Christine Brunette.

In science taste tests were a favorite of Misti Ludwig. She reacts rather visibly to the taste of a lime.

Doing their math together are Brent Lackey and Shane Klisavage.

More Math And Science?!

For the first time in the history of the school, the Mathematics Department made it a requirement for juniors to take an introduction to computers class. The class taught the BASIC computer language and was aimed at making a student comfortable in working with the computer.

A new business math class was also offered to students. The class was geared toward consumer mathematics. Yet another new class, Introduction to Algebra, was offered to freshmen.

The Science Department also experienced some changes. The sophomores began an era where students must take two years of a science in order to graduate. Also seventh and eighth grade science was extended to a full year. Due to this it was necessary to add a member to our faculty, Miss Christine Brunette.

CPR certification was a part of Biology II classes. Steve McCord is shown taking his test.

Working on the computer is something Brad Hammer looks forward to doing.

Foreign Language Club Is The Largest Yet!

Two changes came to the English Department. First a new faculty member replaced Mr. Randy Hisner who resigned at the end of last year. The new teacher, Miss Karey Williams, is a graduate of Purdue, coached girls' varsity basketball, and assisted with track in addition to her teaching duties. The other change was the addition of a new senior English class. Monroe Central decided to get a jump on the new state four year requirement and offered the course two years ahead of the deadline. Miss Williams and Mrs. Paula Washler taught the class which was divided into two separate semesters. Mrs. Washler taught a semester of literature and Miss Williams a semester of grammar.

The Foreign Language Department continued to attract record numbers of students. Mrs. Meri Salyer, Latin, and Mrs. Cheryl Williamson, French, were not only teaching more first year students but had many students in their advanced classes.

Typing II Students Participate In Flashtype

The business and social studies departments did not undergo the major changes that some other areas did due to new state education laws. Although the two departments stayed basically the same, they did have interesting events. The business department had a student teacher, Mr. Tim Passmore, who made a lasting impression on his students.

The Typing II classes participated in a contest called Flashtype. Sponsors pledged a certain amount of money for each correct word student could type in three minutes. Proceeds helped people with muscular dystrophy and a total of $331.35 was raised. Cindy Baker won a telephone for raising the most money and Brad Hammer, the second place money-raiser, was awarded a radio. Brad and Darlena Hunt also won tee shirts for being the fastest typist.

The social studies departments also sponsored a creative event. Mr. Preston Proctor's U.S. History classes had a mock election. Results mirrored the national election. Seniors in government classes were introduced to college and career opportunities through speakers brought in by Mr. Terry Swindell.

Concession Sales Provide College Scholarship

Selling concessions, performing charitable works, and socializing made for a busy year for members of the Fellowship of Christian Athletes. The club sold concessions and advertising in the basketball programs in order to provide college scholarships to senior members.

Charitable works occupied club members during the holidays. At Thanksgiving the FCA gave away Pepsi to any student who donated canned goods to needy families. The club purchased fifteen hams and fifteen dozen rolls to complete the dinners. During Christmas, canned goods were collected, equally divided, and given to the Farmland and Parker fire departments for distribution.

On the social scene, FCA attended the Imperials concert, Youth Explosion, and a Pacer game at the Hoosier Dome.

There were also some new developements in the physical education department. The advanced physical education classes which has not been offered for three years was made available to students. The class proved to be popular, as twenty upper classmen enrolled.

Student Council Attends State Convention In Fall

Under the leadership of student body president Ed Lockard, the student council had an active year. Selected representatives attended a state convention at North Central High School in Indianapolis. The group felt that the weekend was educational and FUN. Members were especially impressed with a slide show dealing with cooperation and responsibility. The group later presented the show to the entire student body at a convocation.

Homecoming, although abbreviated, was again sponsored by the student council. One particularly disappointing part of the homecoming festivities was the cancellation of the popular competition between classes.

An exchange day with Union City was another student council project. Members from Monroe Central spent the day at Union City High School, and a few weeks later Union City student council members visited MC. The activities of the student council were financed by proceeds from the sale of wrapping paper at Christmas time.

Enjoying the subject matter at hand Jeff Walthour and Mr. Danny Mills discuss industrial arts.

Some much needed help arrived this year for librarian Mrs. Helen Davis. For the first time ever our librarian received an aide, Mrs. Judy Pepples. Mrs. Pepples was the former librarian at the Farmland Elementary for fourteen years. When asked the biggest challenge of her job, Mrs. Pepples replied that is was "adjusting to the needs of a high school library compared to the library of the elementary."

In the elementary Mrs. Pepples worked with the students, but in the high school her tasks are of a different nature. Her duties consist of such things as typing, processing books, and taking inventory. Mrs. Pepples realize what new purchases the library needs to make. Thus, the assistance of Mrs. Pepples is greatly appreciated by all.

Industrial Arts Dept. Offers Photography Class

The big news in the industrial arts department was the addition of a photography class. The course, taught by Mr. Larry Calvert, proved to be very popular. Both semesters the seniors claimed all the available class space. Students were not only taught basic photography, but also learned to use the school darkroom to develop black and white photographs.

Of the career center students who responded to a yearbook survey, there was support for the curriculum of the school. Students thought that the skills taught would help them in two major ways. Some thought that the training would be valuable in getting a job after graduation; others thought the training would help prepare them for further vocational schooling. Another plus of the school was that students were able to make friends with students from many area high schools. The major criticism of the career center was the long bus ride. Students thought they should be allowed to drive their own cars, at least on a limited basis.

Bear Facts Available By Subscription Only

The school newspaper underwent a major change this year. Because the activity period was abolished, it was impractical to sell newspapers individually. Therefore, Bear Facts could only be purchased on a subscription basis. The newspaper staff, under the direction of editor-in-chief Jonna Reed, produced nine outstanding issues. One of the most popular was the senior issue which revealed the memories, plans, and ambitions of the graduating class.

Hi Lites was not affected by the lack of an activity period. So the yearbook schedule went on as usual. However, one major problem was overcome. Last year for the first time an effort was made to use student-developed pictures. Many of the photographs were of poor quality. However, this year Kenny Main did an excellent job in the dark room and produced many pictures of high quality.

Much planning and effort goes into producing a yearbook page. Julie Woodard is busy counting characters to see if her copy fits the layout.

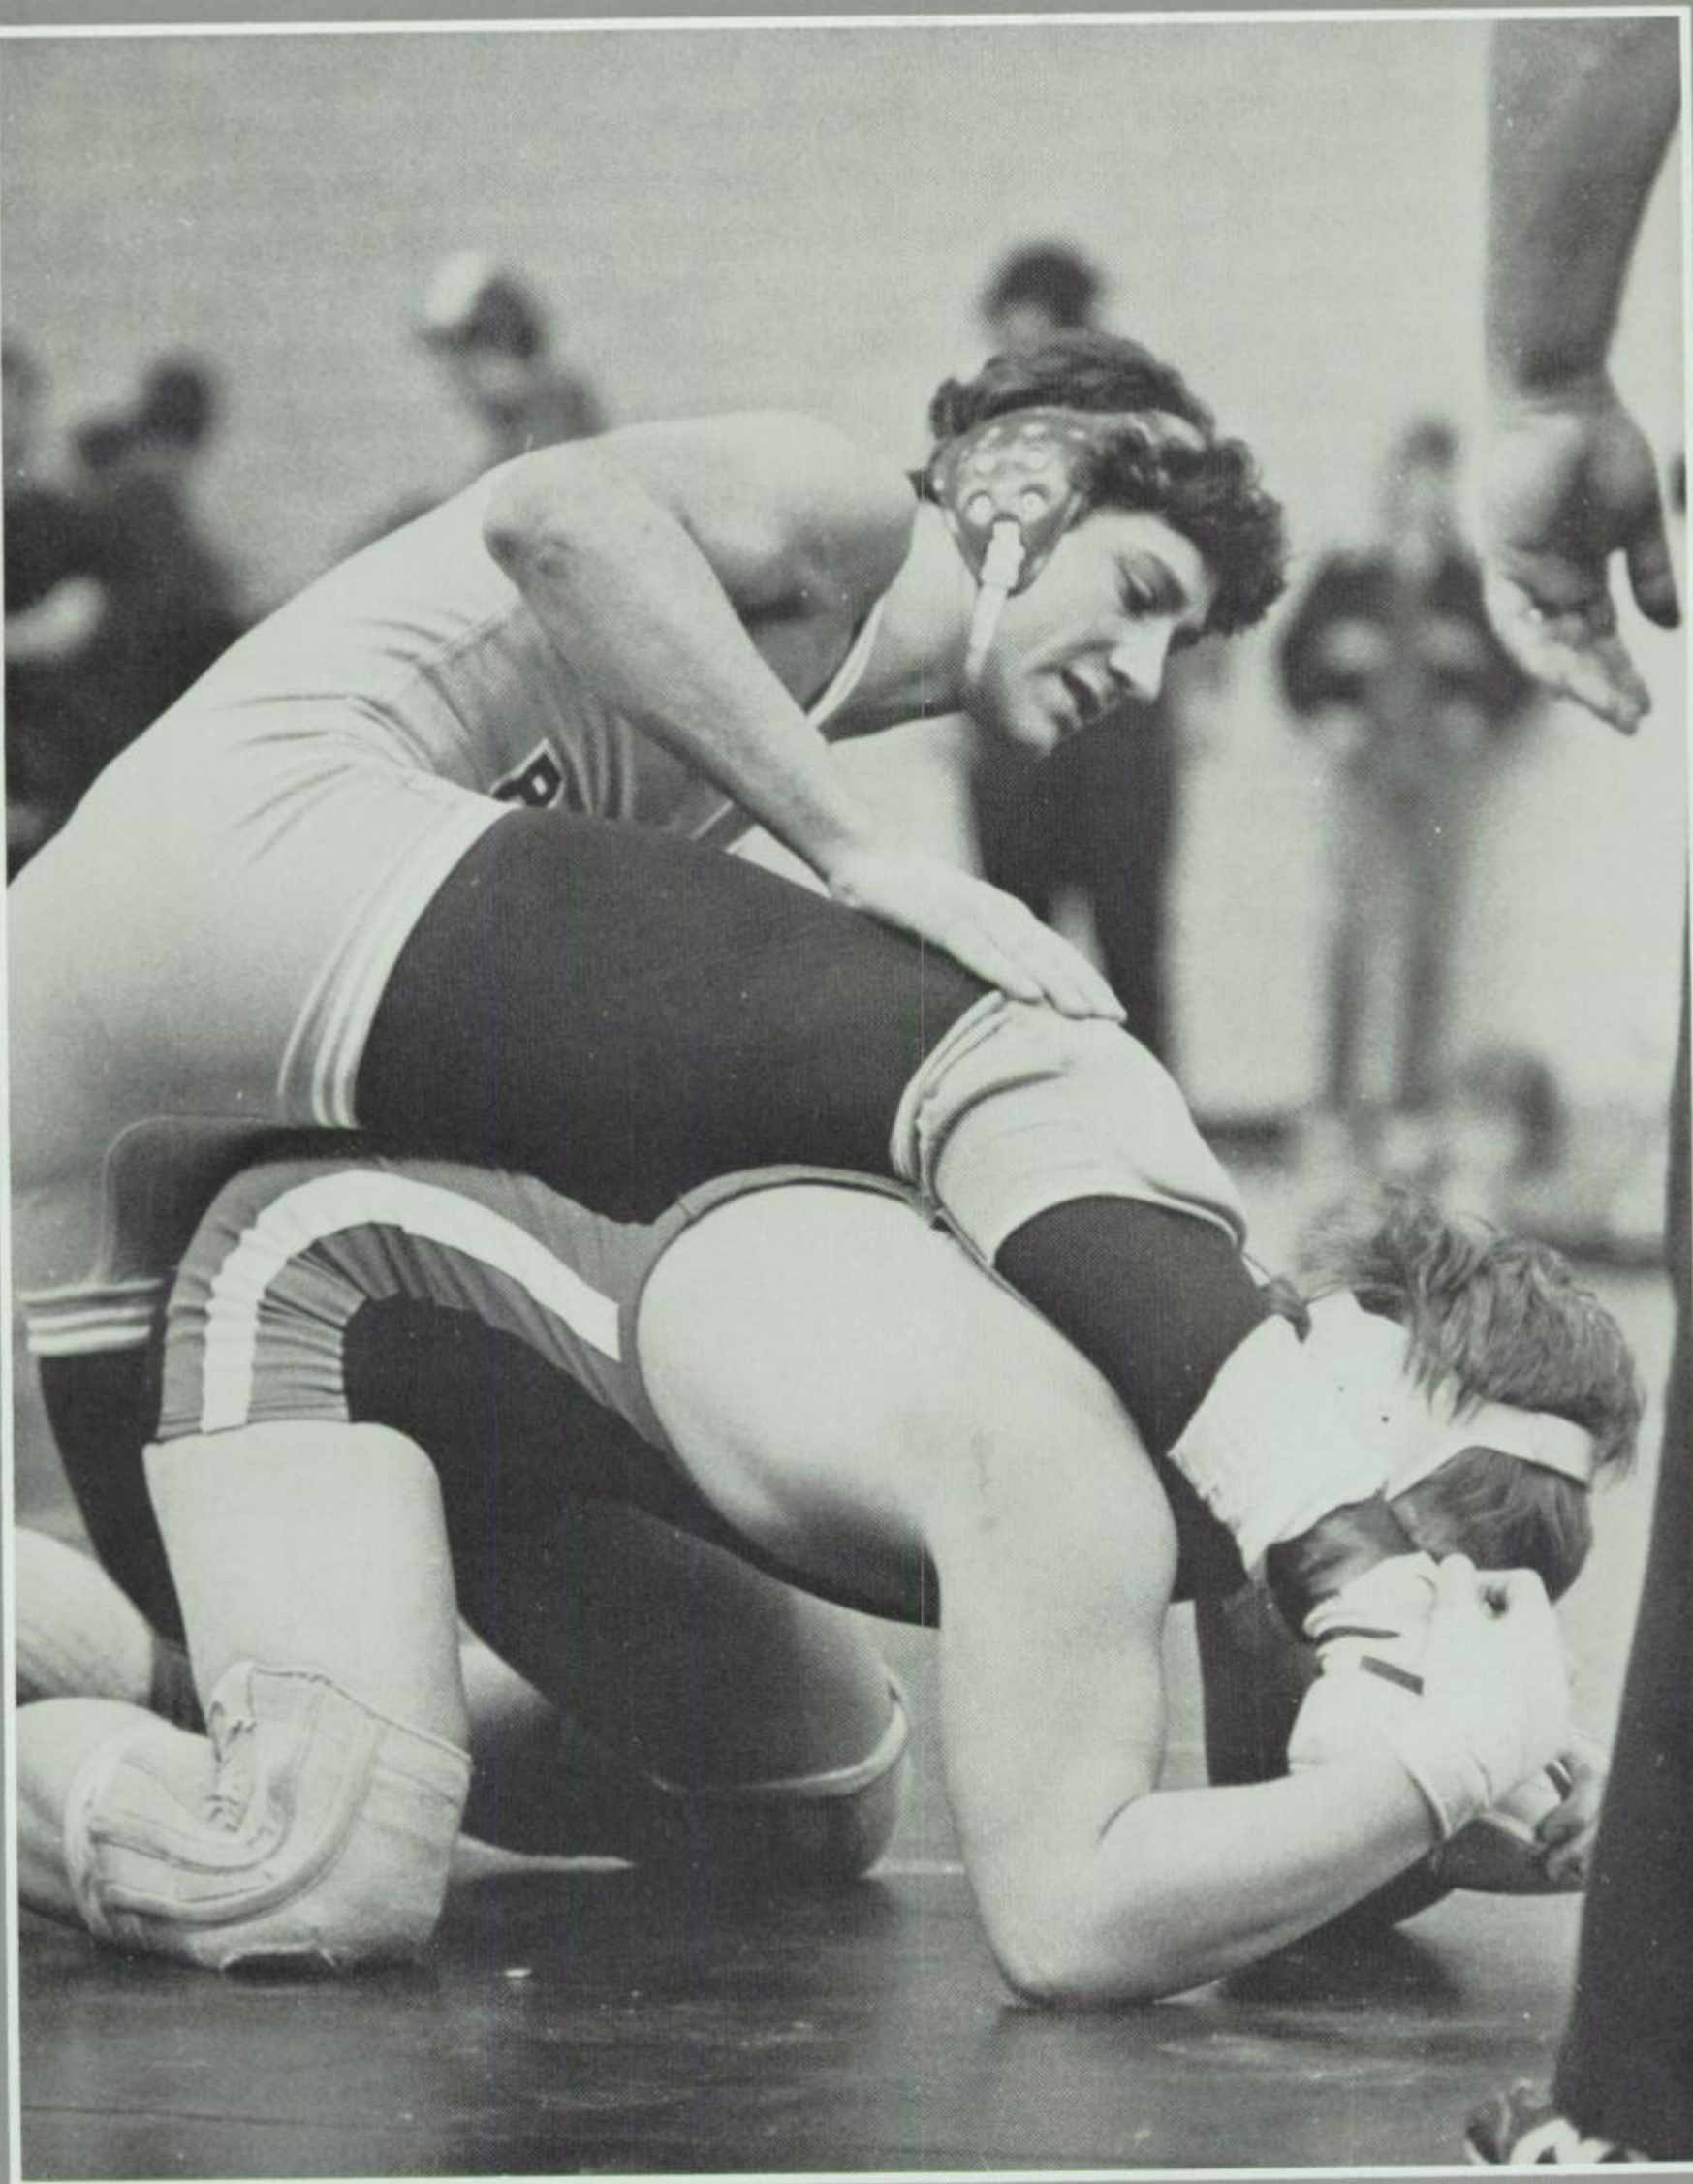
ATHLETIC

Practice, practice, and more practice. This is what it takes to be a Monroe Central athlete. Our school has established a good athletic program and is well known throughout the area. We can be proud to be from M C.

The roar of the crowd shows that our fans were proud of us also. Every local child's goal is to grow up and represent the Golden Bears. Bear Pride is high and something that can be admired.

Accepting her All-County medal from Mr. Larry New, Sarah McGunegill beams with pride.

TEAM SW



Shown wrestling his way to a county championship, Jeff Miller also won the covered award for most improved wrestler.

MC Spirit — A Total Team Effort

For the second consecutive year, the cheerleaders were assisted by mountmen at the county tourney. The cheerleaders and mountmen performed this spirited routine during the championship game against Union City.

During their first undefeated season, the wrestlers were supported by thirty-two Mat Maids. Mat Maids Jill Ford and Julie Woodard show their spirit by making posters for the county meet.

What? No Pep Club? For the first time in Monroe Central's history the spirit of the Pep Club was not heard throughout the gym. Very few girls enrolled for Pep Club, so it was decided that there wouldn't be one.

Even without the Pep Club, the spirit of the student body could still be seen and heard. Adding to the spirit were the faithful cheerleaders, Mat Maids, and the fans. Although the varsity basketball team did not have a winning season, the Bears' supporters were not discouraged.

Bear mascot Wendi Gray fired up Bear fans with her MC spirit.

Generating spirit can be difficult during a losing season, Mandy Reece tries to fire the crowd up for a homecoming victory.

Bear "Cubs" Backed By Spirited Fans

One of the many tasks of being a cheerleader is to fire up the players. Cheerleaders, Hilary Hoyt, Sherry Deckman, and Corry Lockard give confidence to Joey Sunday before the game.

Individually, Andy Bly finished second in the county meet and was near the top in every meet on his way to becoming the most valuable runner. Freshman Jeff Cross was the recipient of the most improved runner.

The junior high runners also had rough seasons. The seventh grade cross country team, paced by Adrian Moulton, suffered through a 1-7 season. The eighth grade cross country team ended its season at 2-6. Steve Fields was the top runner for the Bears.

The 1984 varsity volleyball season was an historical one for the Bears. First year coach Chris Brunette guided the spikers to their first winning record. The Bears, who finished at 11-10, were county tourney and sectional runners-up. They lost the final game of the sectional to 13th-ranked Wapahani.

The Bears placed three girls on the All-County team. They were Linda Smithson, Toni Smith, and Mindy Homan.

The winning record is even more impressive when the experience of the team is considered. Co-captain Dawn Armstrong was the lone senior on the team which consisted of eight juniors and three sophomores.

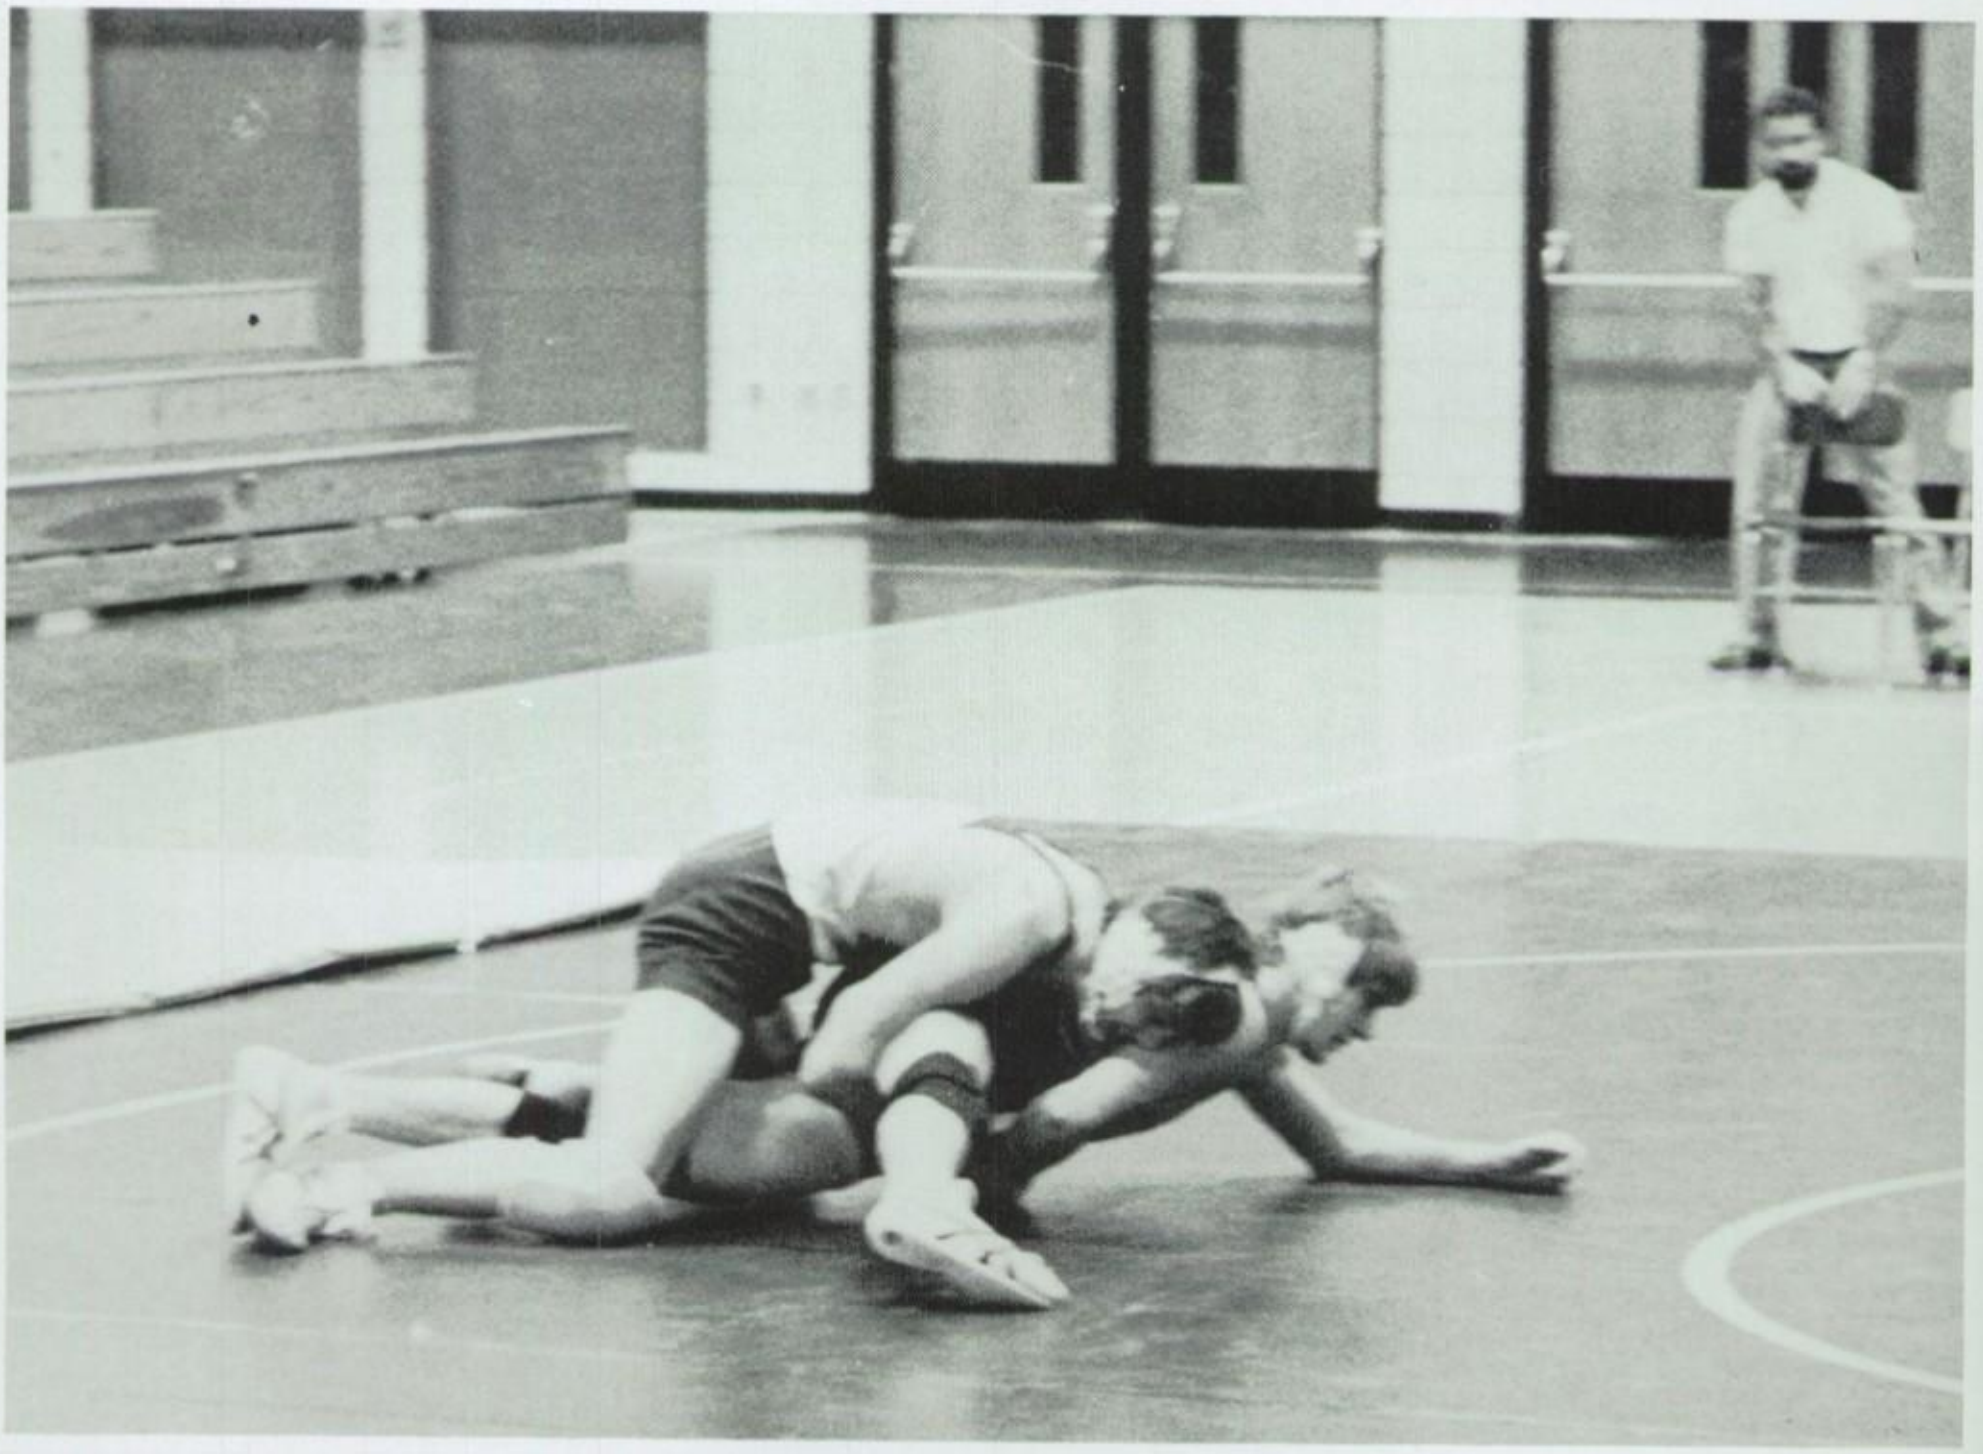
State qualifier Bret Hodson moves into position to pin his opponent in a meet against Daleville.



The Monroe Central Grapplers had a year to remember. As a team, the grapplers went 12-0 in dual meets which was a new school record. The reserve team also set a new school record with 9 wins against no losses. The varsity grapplers dominated the county meet, winning easily over second place Winchester. The Bears had 7 county champs. They also took second in the conference, and had a strong second place finish in the sectional.

Monroe Central had 8 representatives at the regional, 2 of whom qualified for the semi-state. Mark Hodson placed third and was an alternate while his older brother Bret was the 112 pound champion. Bret went on to place second in the semi-state and be the first wrestler in the school's history to qualify for the state. Bret set 3 new records during the year; best single season record (27-4), most takedowns in a season (24), and most points in a season (310). Mark Hodson also set a school record for wins in the 105 pound class with a 20-3 season. Other outstanding records for the grapplers were Kent Driskill at 20-3, Brad Watt at 21-5, and Jeff Miller at 19-5.

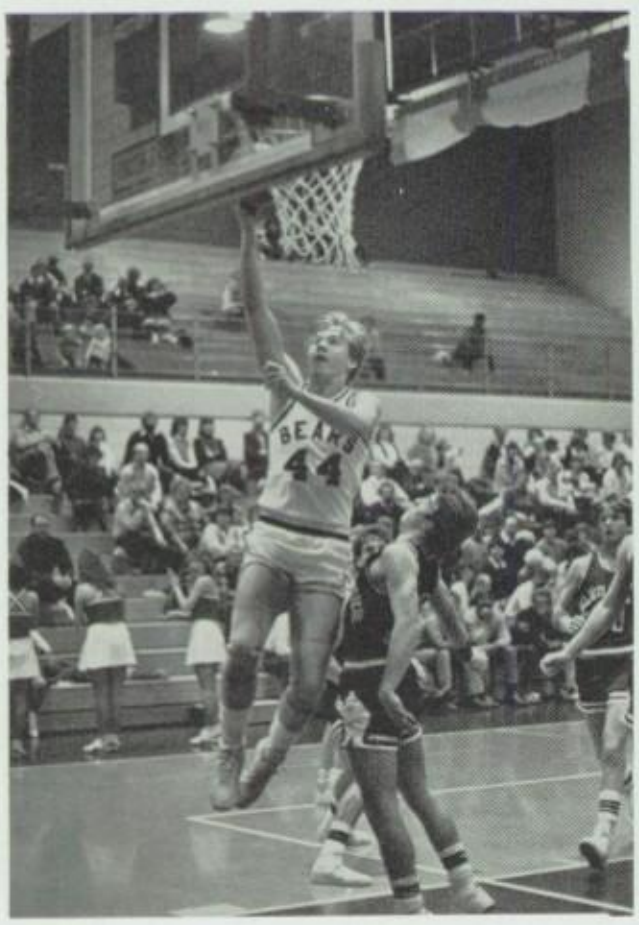
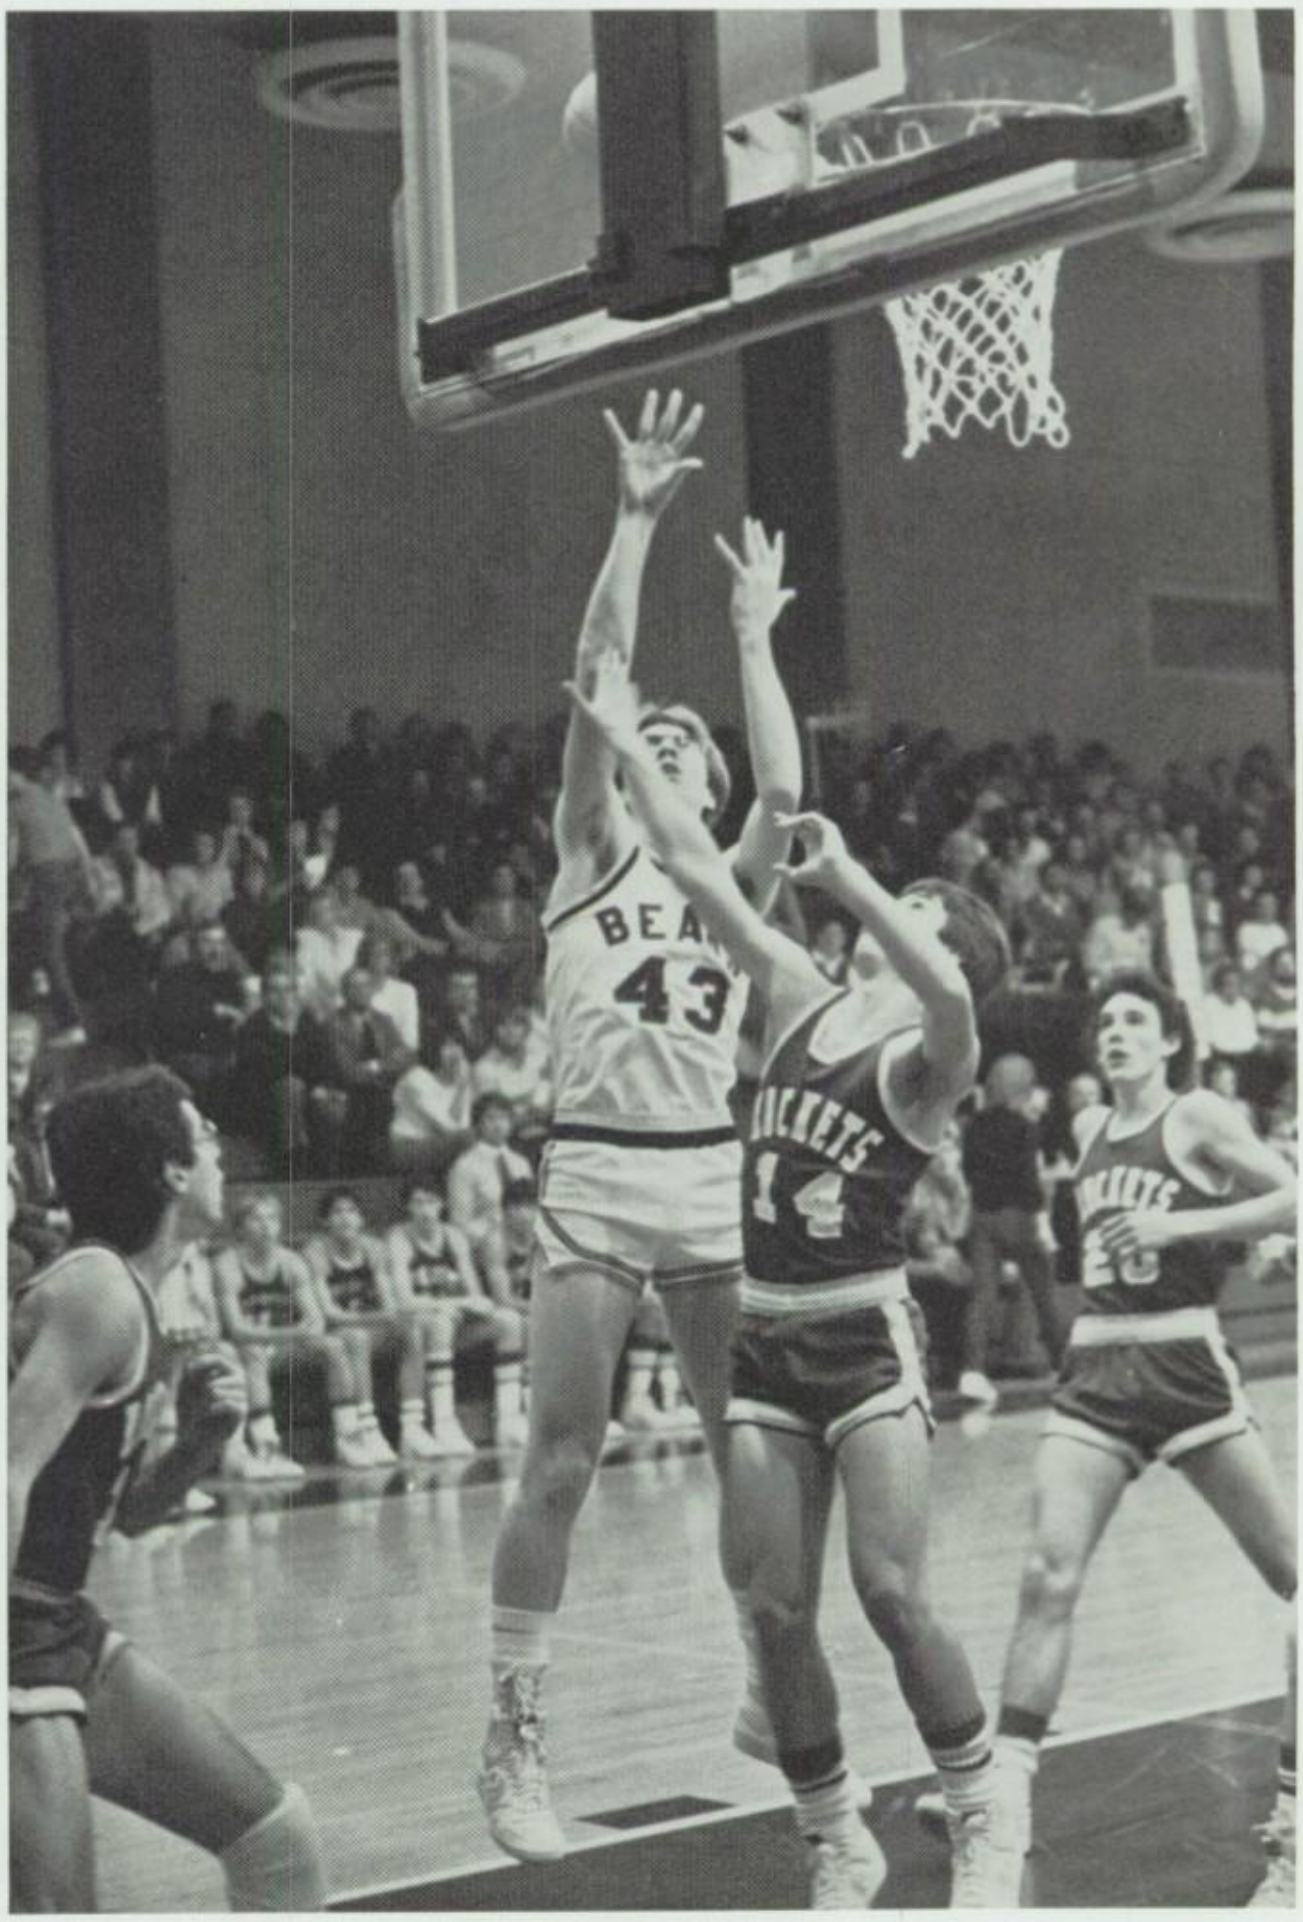
Firing a jump shot, Dale Profitt scores the first 2 points of the game.

1984-85 turned out to be another disappointing season for the varsity basketball team as they finished up at 7-14 for the second year in a row. Paced by senior leading scorer Tracy Buis (13 points per game), the Bears ended the season by winning 3 of their last 4, including a big win over Wapahani to knock them out of the conference championship. The Bears finished at 4-5 in the conference, good enough for a tie for fifth place.

Junior Allen Qualls was the team's leading rebounder at 10 per game and the second leading scorer with 11.6 points per contest. Dale Profitt was the third leading scorer with a 11.2 average while Ryan Stanley chipped in 9.3 points per game and was second in rebounding at 6.5. Junior Chris Wheat was the assist leader with 5 per game.



Concentrating on the basket, Allen Qualls powers up for a layup.



Shooting over a crowd, Ryan Stanley scores two more for the Bears.

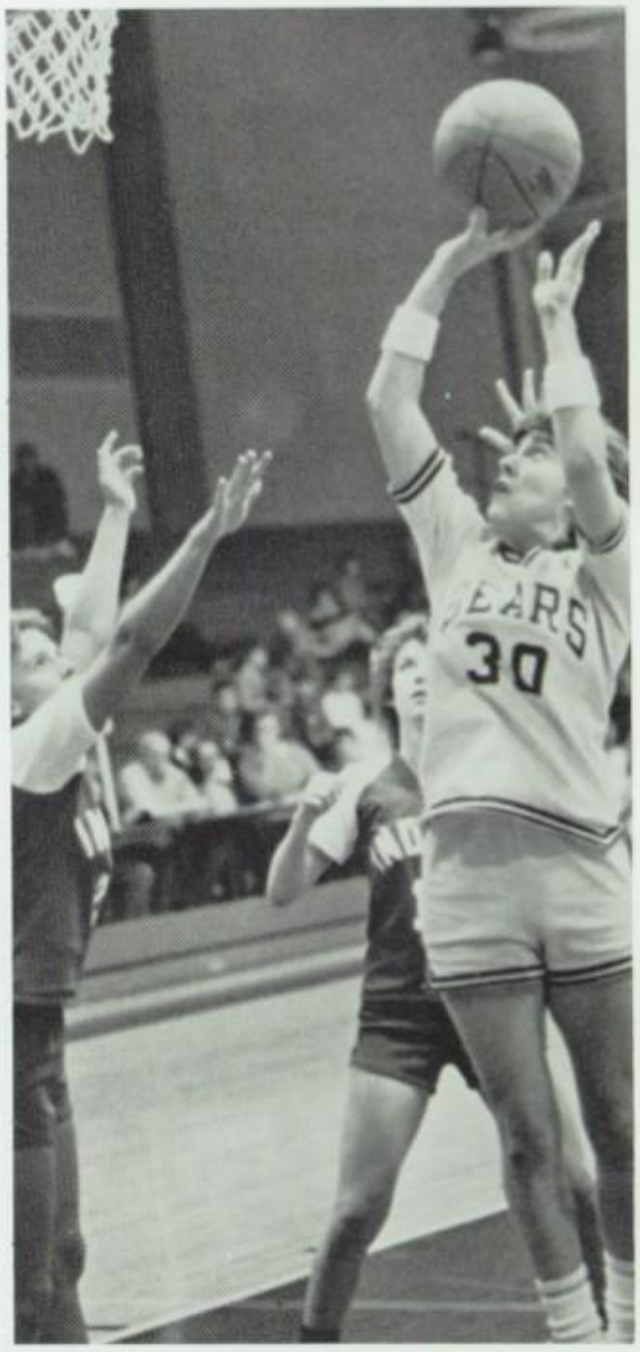
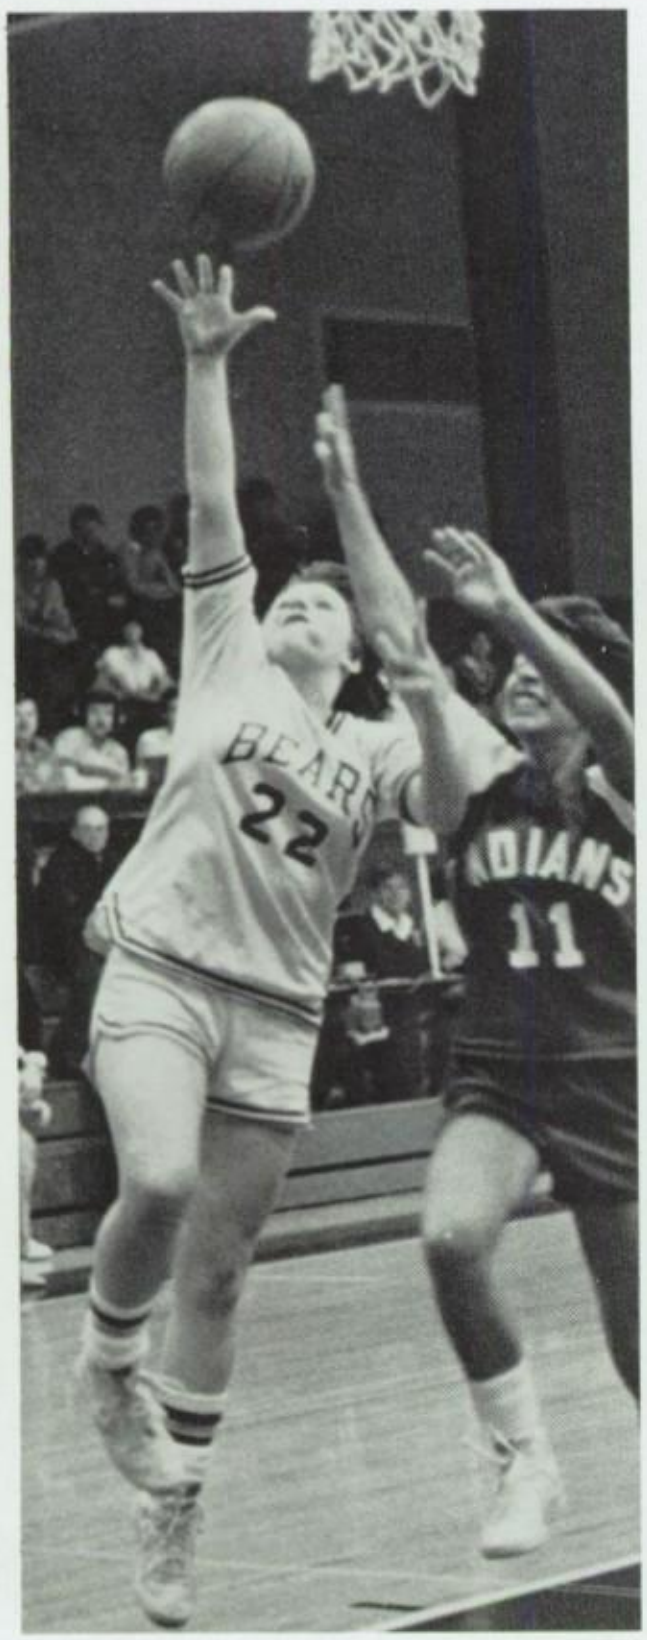
The Lady Bears had a streak of 2 straight sectional championships broken but still salvaged a successful 11-8 season. Rookie coach Karey Williams guided the Bears out of the blocks in style by winning 8 of their first 10 games. The Bears then got punished by Winchester in the county tourney 44-27, but the Lady Bears got the last word when they won a hard-fought 43-39 first-round sectional game against Winchester. They were then eliminated by a very talented Union City team in the final.

Individually, junior Sarah McGunegill was the team's leading scorer (14 ppg.) and the leading rebounder (9.5). She also led the team in the field goal percentage (46.5%). Junior Tonya Brothers was tops from the charity stripe with 54%. One record was set this year as senior Dawn Armstrong shattered the old assist record of 78 in 22 gaves by getting 105 assists in only 19 games.



Firing a short jumper over Union City defenders seems to be Alana Homan's only concern.



Converting fast-break layups helped to give the Lady Bears a winning record, as Dawn Armstrong demonstrates.

Keeping her team fired-up, but under control, was first year coach Karey Williams's main duty.

The junior high basketball teams ended up with an excellent combined record of 37-14. The eighth grade boys, who went 7-1 in the second half of the season and 5-1 against county schools, ended up with a fine 10-4 record. They were led in scoring by Mike Lambert who averaged 8.6 points per game. Lambert also had the highest rebound average at 8.6. Chris Stires' 78% from the line was also a team high.

The seventh grade boys lost their first 3 games, but bounced back to have a respectable 8-5 record. Darrell Sunday led the team in scoring with 13.6 points per game. Jeff Dragoo was the team's leading rebounder pulling down 9.4 boards per game. Bret Berg was the leading free throw shooter at 68%.

The eighth grade girls finished up with an excellent 8-3 record. The team ended the season averaging 30.9 points per game while they only allowed 24.5 for a fine 6.4 average point spread. April McCollum was the team's leading scorer. The seventh grade ended their season in typical fashion by trouncing Randolph Southern 42-6. They were also county champs. Heather Willis concentrates on her uneven bars exercise before the meet begins.

All-around sectional champion, Mandy Reece, smiles graciously as she performs her routine.

Leesa O'Bryant seems to be frozen in mid-air as she performs a routine on the bars.

Keeping her eyes focused on the vault is Lissa O'Bryant's main concern.

The girls' gymnastics team ended its season at 6-4. Led by all-around sectional titlist Mandy Reece, the Bears outscored all opponents at the intermediate level in the sectional. However, due to the new IHSAA rules, only the optional level can advance past the sectional. Participants in the sectional were Mandy Reece, Lissa O'Bryant, Heather Willis, Missy Edwards, and Leesa O'Bryant.

The gymnastics team also made a bit of history in the fact that Lisa LaDuron was the first coach in MC history to coach a varsity sport and not be on the teaching staff.

Varsity & Junior High Girls Win County

Straining to keep the lead, Kelly Edwards begins to pull away from the field in the county meet.

After losing their initial outing of the season the girls' varsity track team dominated the competition. In the first meet the Lady Bears lost to rival Wapahani and tied Delta but won the next seven. In fact, the team totally outclassed the opponents, averaging nearly 78 points per meet to the opponents' 31.

The girls finished third in the conference and Hagerstown Invitational but won the county meet.

Individually, three records were set or tied. Freshman Staci Smith tied Mary Traub's 1979 high jump mark of 5'0" and also established a new 400 meter dash record. Another freshman, LeAnn Sanders, set a new record in the 300 meter hurdles.

The junior high girls also enjoyed another successful season. New coach Debbie Stanley guided the team to an undefeated season and yet another county title. Seventh grader Tonya Mays turned in the only record-breaking performance. Her time of 7.24 in the 60 meter dash is a new school mark.

Although Tracy Buis threw the discus, his strongest event was the hurdles where he bettered his existing school record.

Despite having only five seniors on its 27 man roster, the varsity track team had a fine year. The team had a 7-2 dual meet record and won the county championship. Tracy Buis broke his own record in the 300 intermediate hurdles and Steve Beach tied the existing high jump record.

The junior high team finished with a 4-1 record and a second place in the conference. No new individual records were set.

Dale Profitt had an outstanding year offensively. Dale batted .408, had a team leading 18 RBI's and 24 stolen bases.

Several Bears batted over .300. Chris Edwards was at .450, Greg Brown .341, Matt McKelvey and Mike Pepples .333, and Joel VanPelt .303. Mike Pepples led the team in homeruns with 5.

Pitching was a strong point for the 1985 baseball team. Mike Pepples was 5-1 with a 1.40 ERA. Ryan Stanley was 4-1 and Joel VanPelt was 3-1.

The reserve team had an up and down season and with two games left plus the Yorktown tournament, the reserves hoped to end the season above the .500 mark.

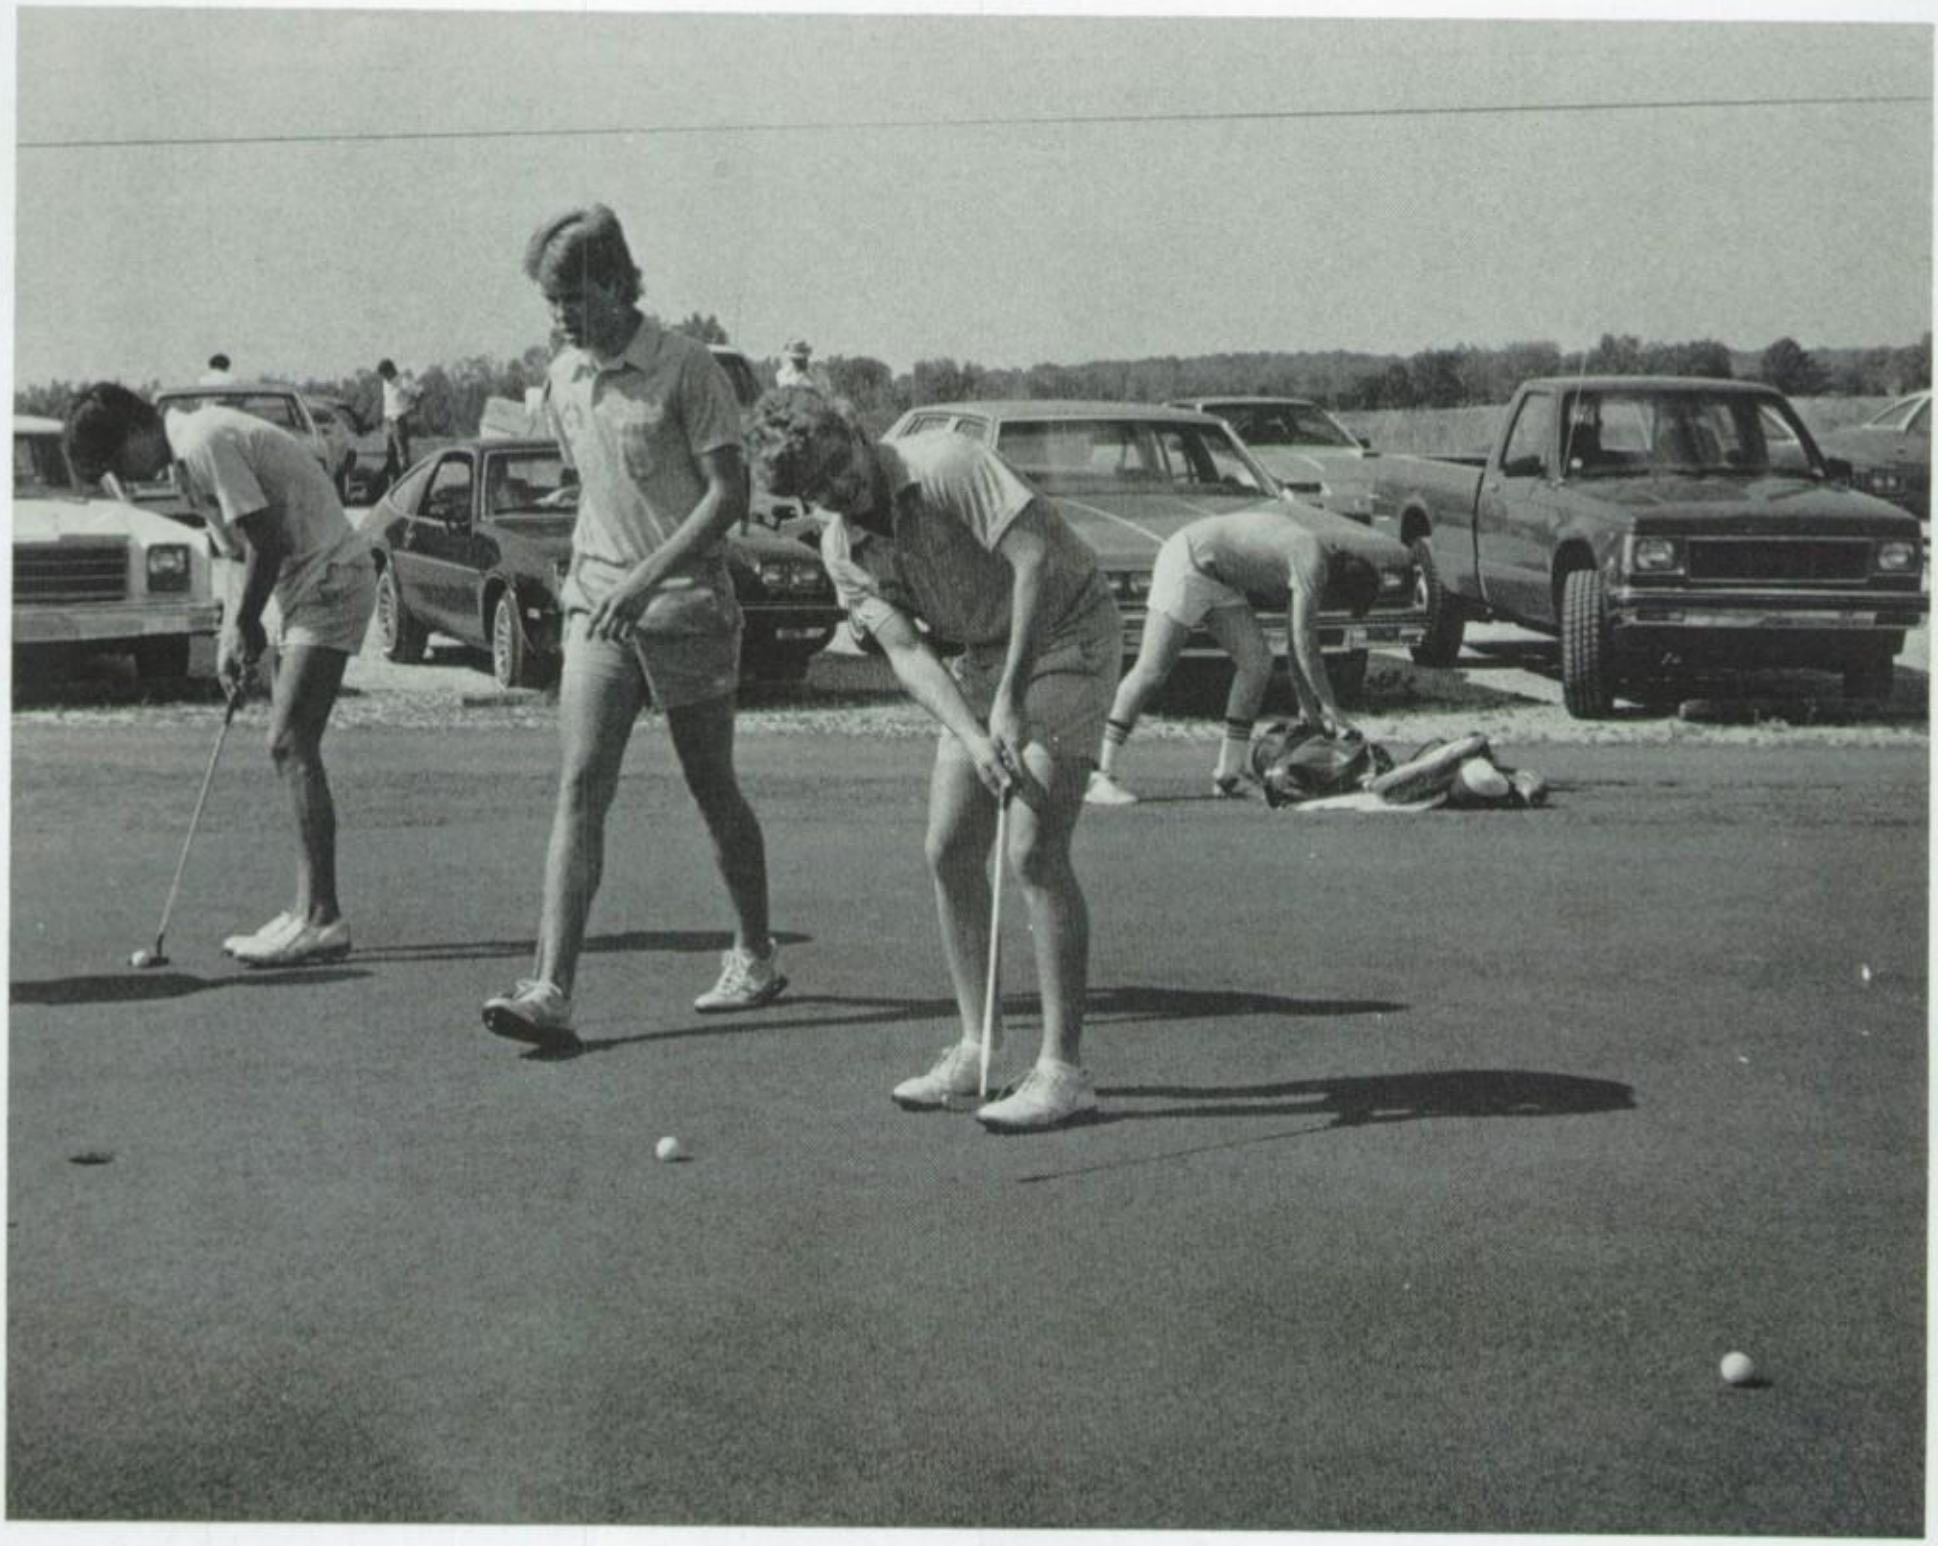
Golf Team Wins Seventh Consecutive County Title



The year for the boys' golf team, led by senior Ed Lockard, was a successful one.

The boys' golf team successfully defended its Randolph County Championship and won its seventh consecutive title. The team also finished runner-up in the Mid-Eastern Conference by placing 3 shots behind a tough Daleville squad.

The team was paced by senior Ed Lockard, who closed out a brillian four-year career by having an outstranding senior year. Ed was the low medalist in the Noblesville Invitational, the Randolph County, and the Mid-Eastern Conference for three first place finishes. Ed was named to the All-County first team for the fourth straight year and was named to the All-Conference first team for the third straight year. Junior Troy Roahrig placed second in the county and was named to the All-County first team. Junior Todd Roahrig earned All-Conference honors by placing seventh.

The girls' golf team was led by low medalist Vickie Brosher who is only a sophomore. Angie Fisher was the Most Improved while Robin Keever was the Mental attitude award winner.

Consistent golfing helped Ed Lockard to team low medalist honors and a regional berth.

Concentration is a key asset in the putting game, as Todd Roahrig demonstrates.

FACES

Years come and year go and so do the faces of Monroe Central. Each year bright little faces of people coming into the high school for the first time appear in the halls. Also, the old faces of seniors after graduation disappear.

The type of people that go to this school has not changed through the years. The students range from farmers to city dwellers. The nice thing about a small school is that every face is a familiar one.

A person at the telephone is a common sight at MC. Here, Dorinda Armstrong calls a friend.

Showing how much they "love" Mrs. Paula Washler and English class, Troy Roahrig and Tom Cockerill share a cake with the class.

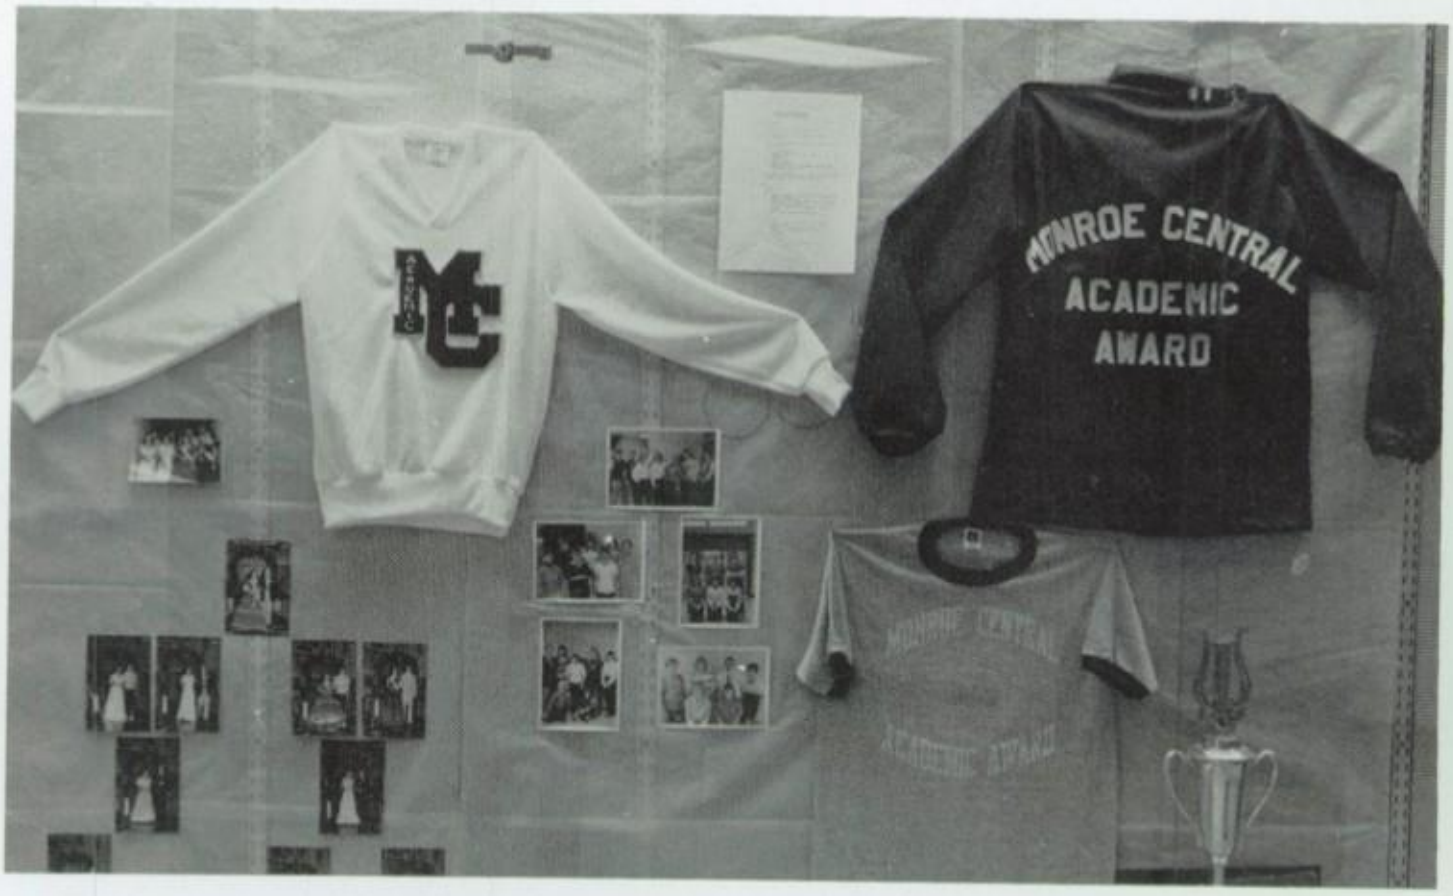
Exercising their Monroe Central patriotism, the sophomores strutted through the halls in their "spanking" new class jackets. Whether deciding to buy leather or cloth-sleeved jackets, the sophomores were looking forward to their new-found warmth. The jackets give the students a feeling of pride for their class and their school. So as the sophomores made their final decision, they took one more step through the tunnels of time.

FRESHMEN



Beginning this year the administration established a program to promote academic achievement. Those students who were on the A or A and B semester honor roll received T-shirts. If a student receives four semesters of all A's, then he or she may choose between a jacket or a sweater.

The Eye In The Sky

Because the school was often burgularized, a new alarm system was installed. The system, which is a sound detecting device, is turned on whenever there is no custodian in the building. Often on Saturdays the teams would be trying to get into the school only to be met by the police wanting to apprehend the criminal. The outside door is the only way the teams could enter and if they touch the gym doors to the cafetorium it would activate the system.

Coming out to the "high school" is a very exciting experience for the seventh graders. One experience is the locker. Some students have trouble conquering this feat. As Lee Ann Townsend shows us, immense concentration is needed to get the combination right. In the first week of school, many seventh graders can be seen roaming the halls halfway through the period still trying to find their room.

When students returned in the fall, they found that the faculty had grown. However, the "growth" was not in terms of numbers, but rather in size since three teachers were pregnant. On October 20, Mrs. McShurley gave birth to Kirk Ryan who weighed in at a whopping 10 pounds, 8½ ounces. Megan Hamilton arrived six weeks ahead of schedule on November 26 and weighed a petite 5 pounds, 11 ounces. Gavin Ross Howell appeared on November 30 and weighed 6 pounds, 5 ounces.

For That Special Person

Receiving the Monroe Central Athletic Boosters Scholarships pleases Dawn Armstrong and Dale Profitt.

Proud to be chosen for the National Athlete Award are Robin Keever and Ryan Stanley.

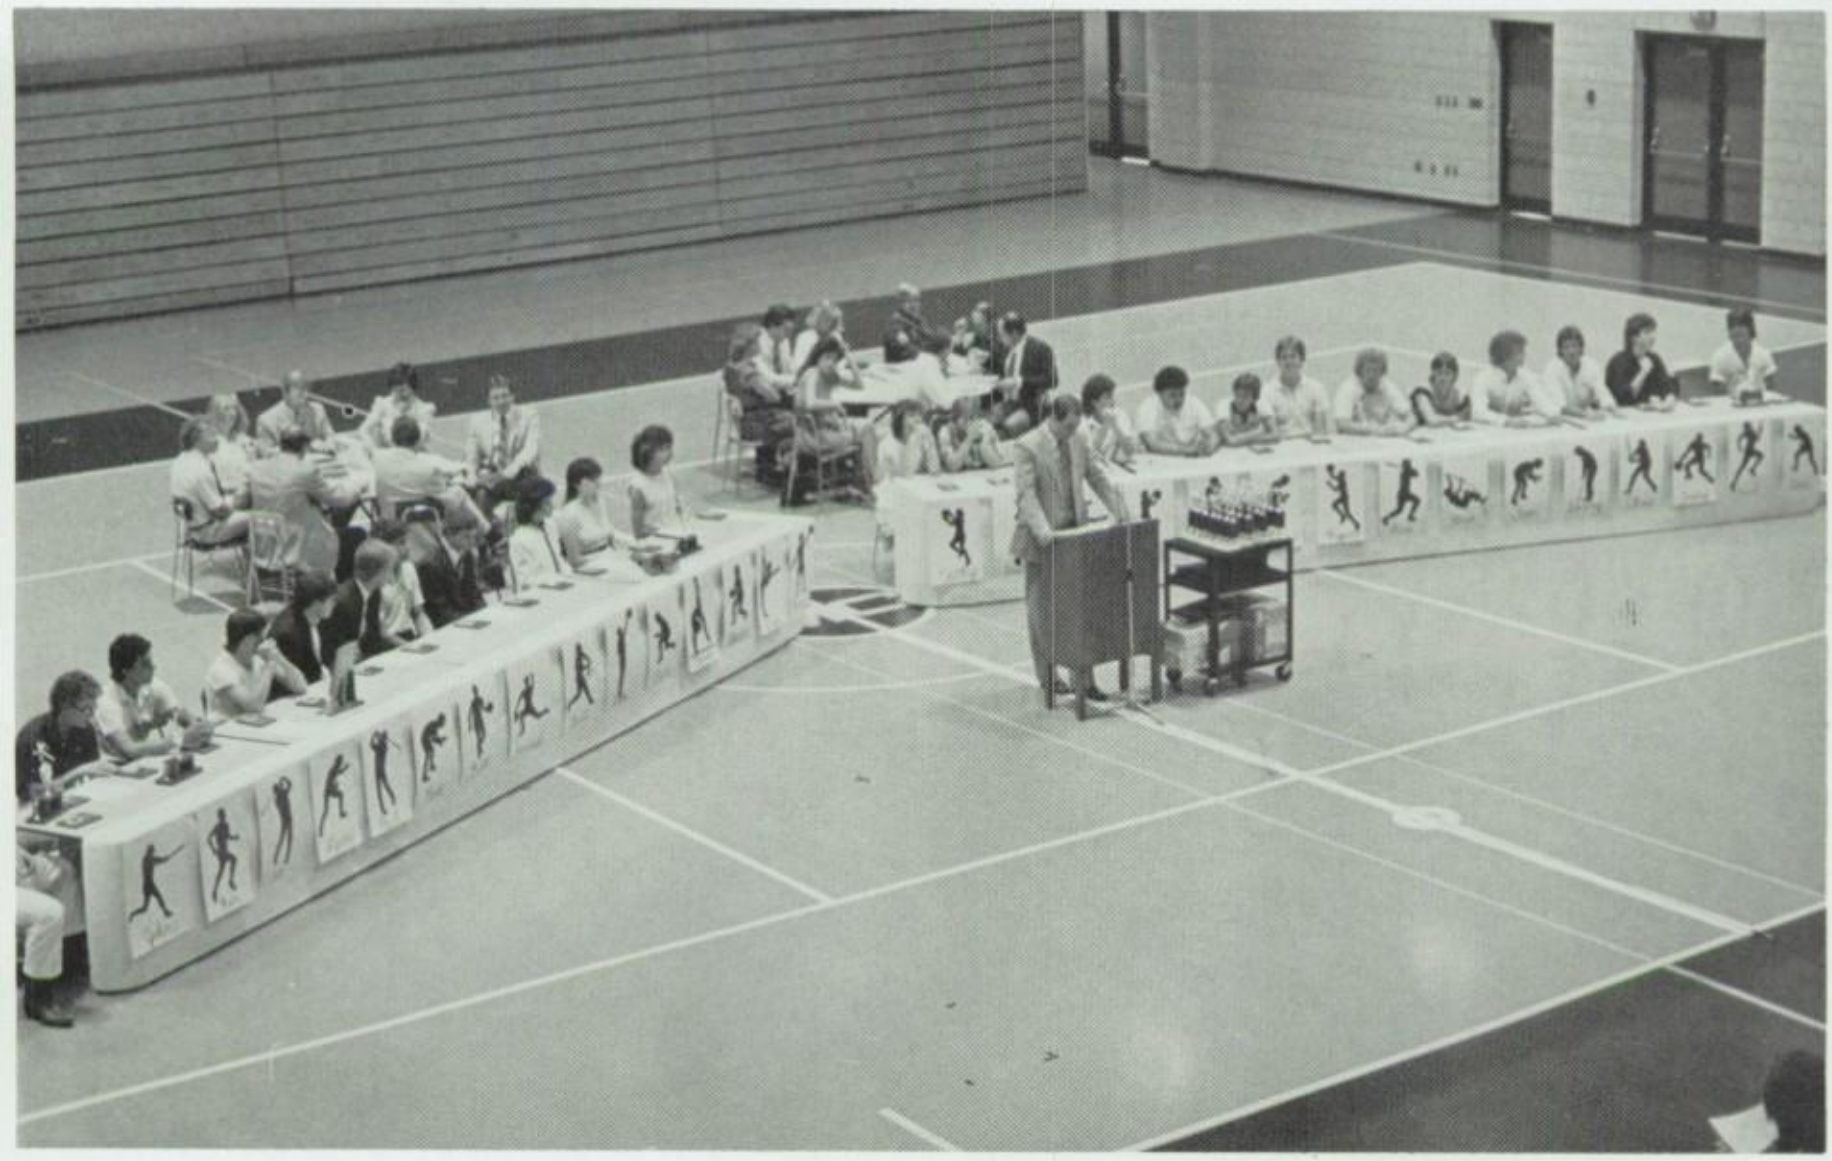
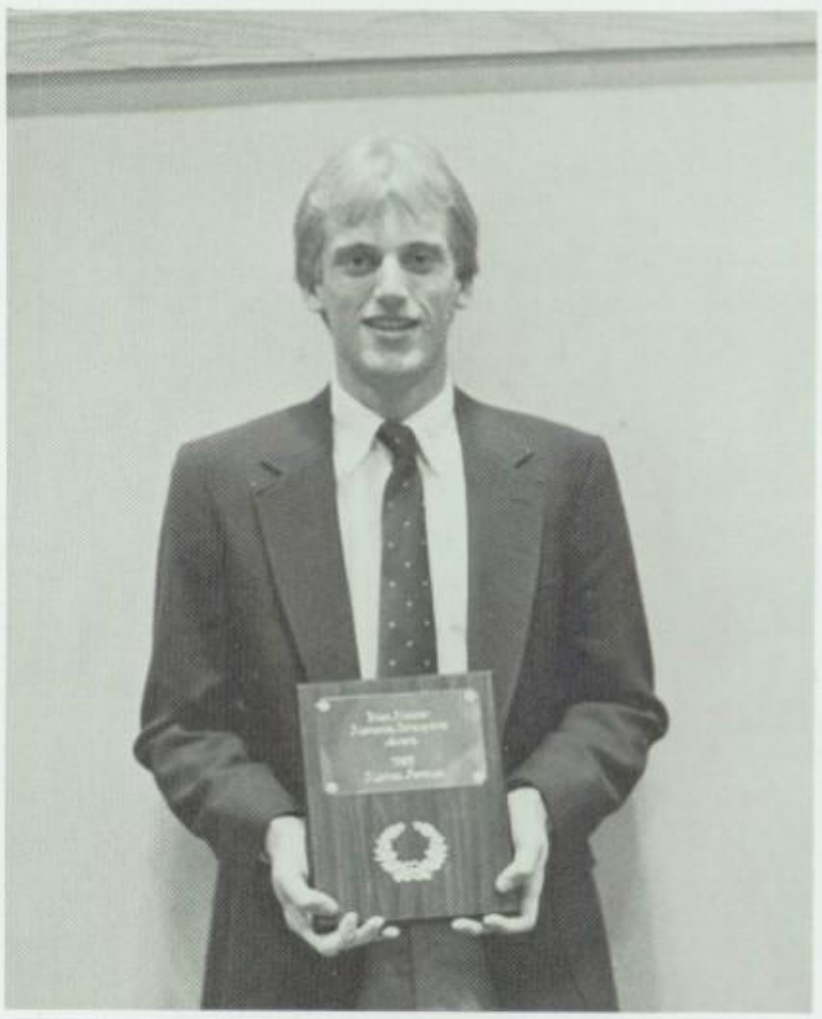
Hard work and dedication paid off for Dale Profitt, Dawn Armstrong, and Ed Lockard as they received Outstanding Athlete recognition.

Sitting as guests of honor is a thrill for the seniors at the athletic banquet.

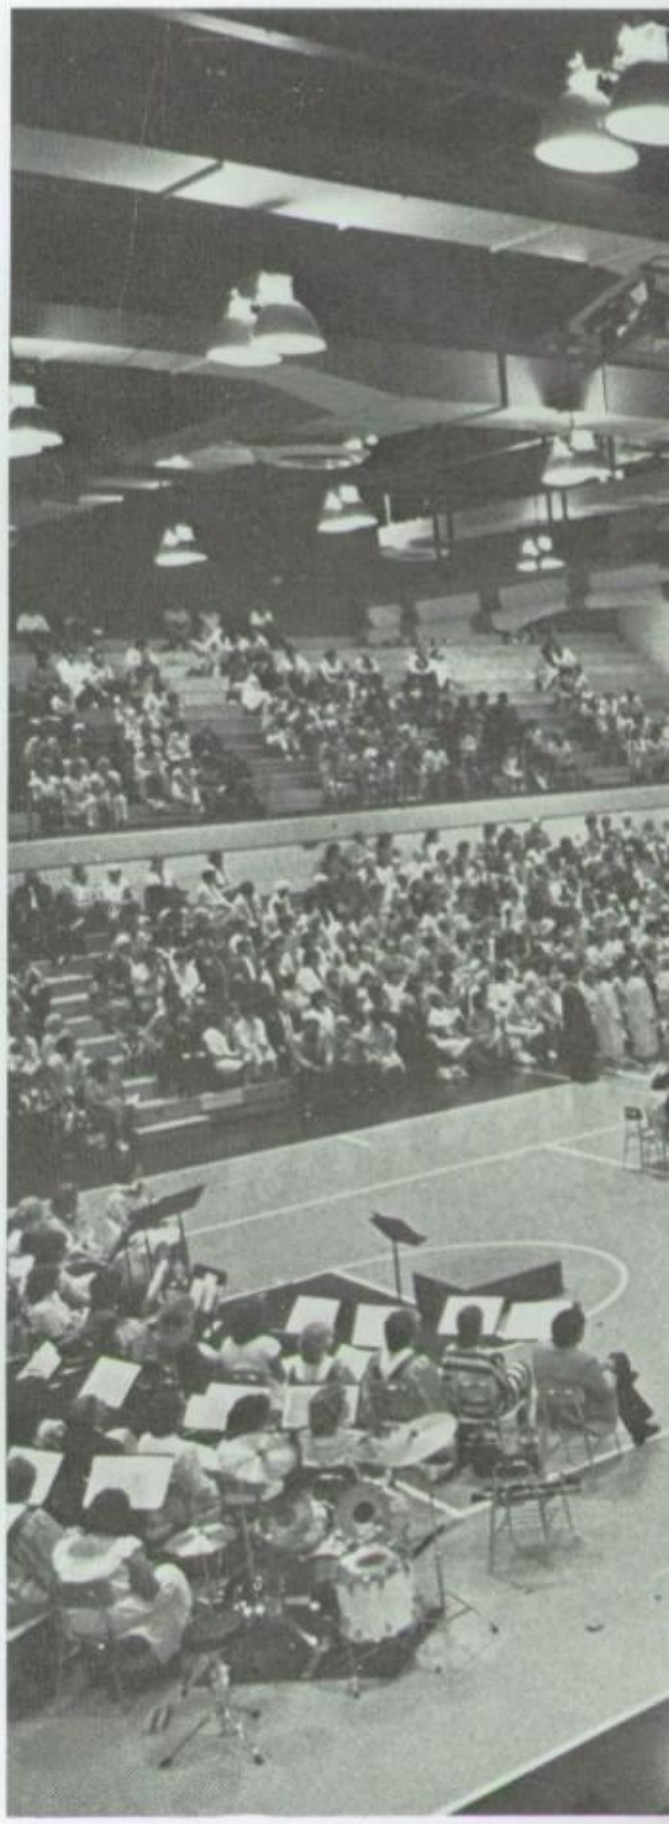


Showing the plaques they received for the Paul H. Beck scholarship are Alana Homan and Ryan Stanley.



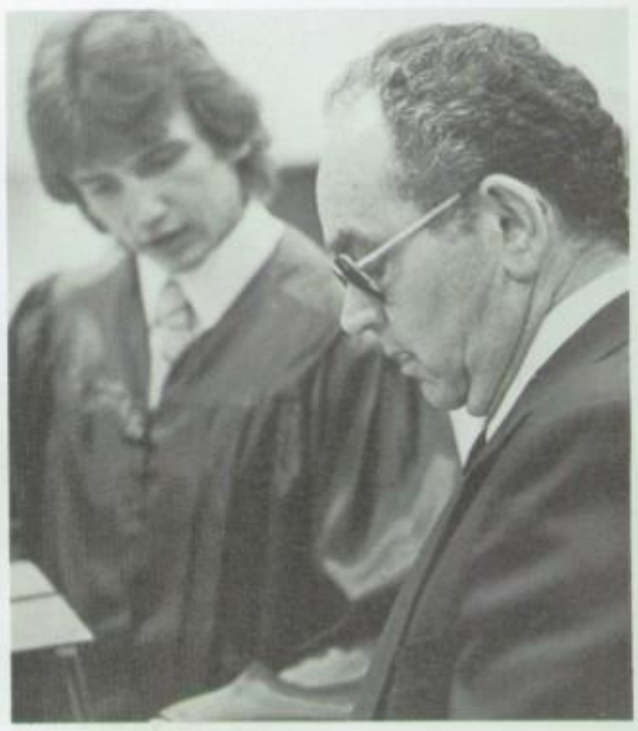
Being selected as the recipient of the covered Brian Meister scholarship pleases Michael Pepples.

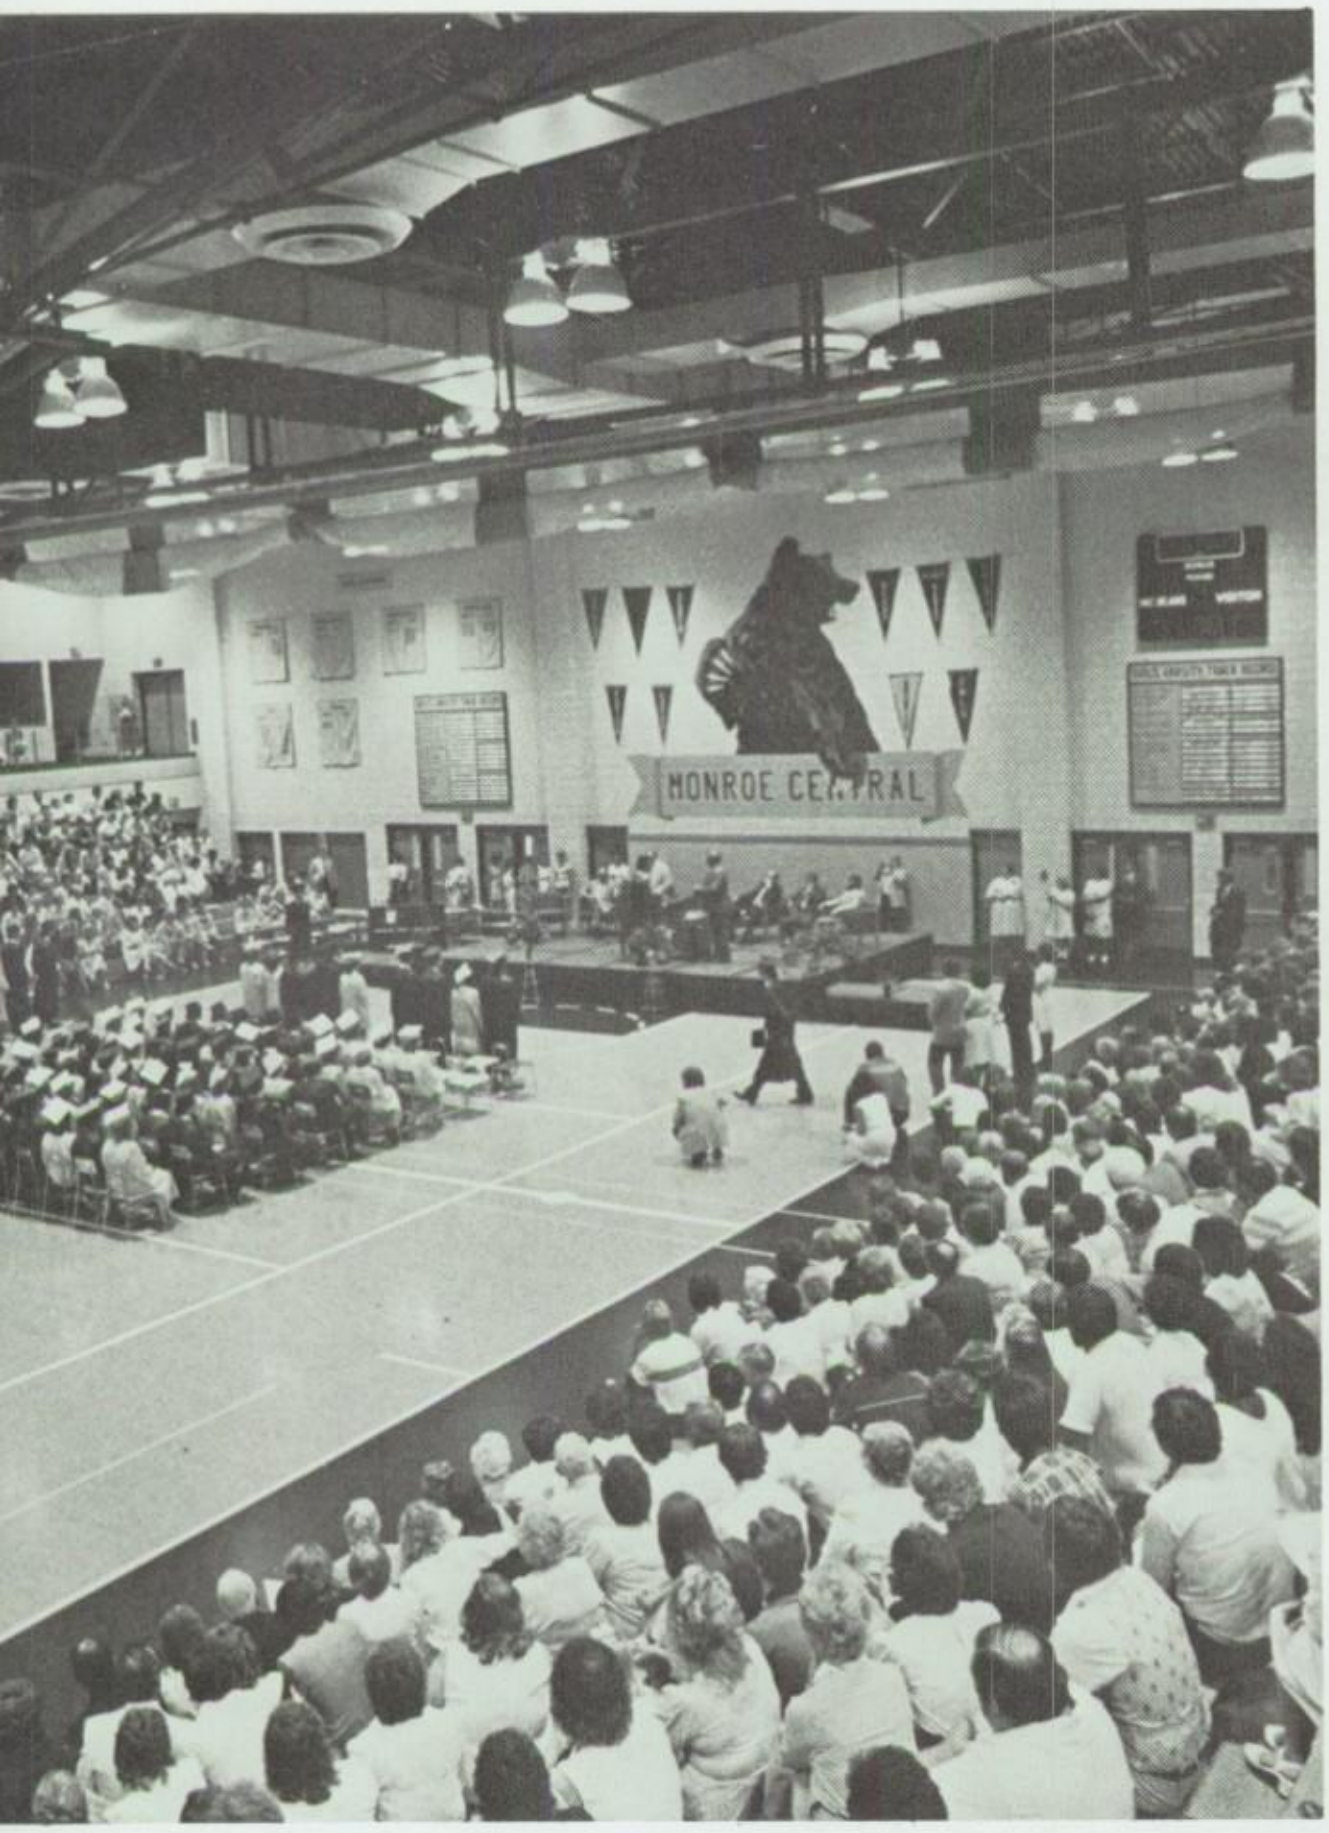
Principal Don Elder gives last-minute instructions to the seniors.



The senior girls help each other dress for their final appearance as Monroe Central students.

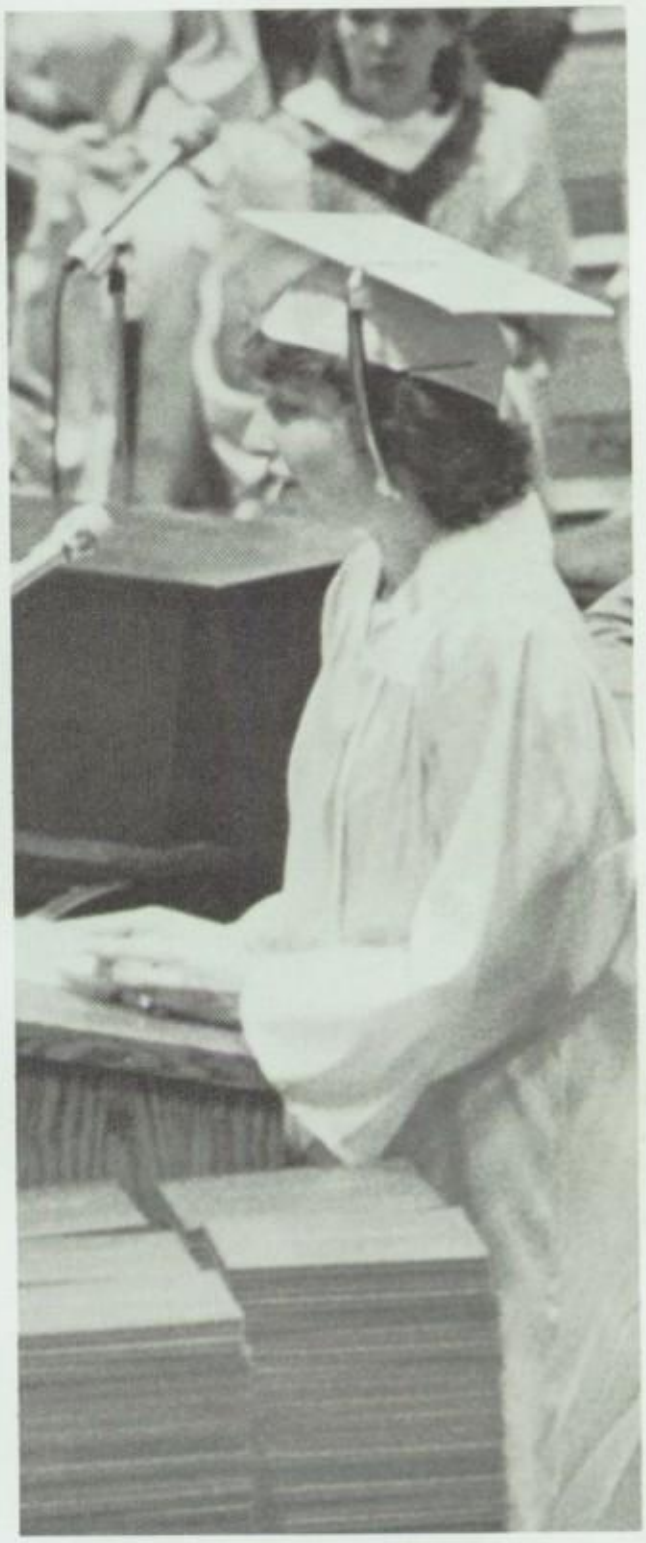
Tracy Buis and class sponsor Mr. Danny Mills check the graduation program.





A large crowd attended graduation to see the senirs proudly accepr their diplomas.

Valedicrorian Cathy Cross was one of several commencement speakers.



One of the more pleasant jobs of the school board is to attend graduation.

After attending the senior banquet, the class reassembled in the gym for commencement practice.
